Added police supervisors aid staffing problems

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Understaffed supervisory shifts and a $7,000 total for shift command overtime for the first eight months of 1988 have led Romulus City Council members to approve the promotion of three sergeants within the police force. Three patrol officers will be hired with previously allocated funds.

The current staffing situation has resulted in confusion, unfair delegation of responsibility and diminished supervision of patrol officers, stated Police Chief Charles Wilmoth, prior to the council meeting.

His request for the promotions is based on a decrease in personnel from 30 to 25 percent composition of command officers on the force since July, 1986.

The decrease has resulted in increased responsibility for each command officer and confusion for each shift, he said.

Members of each of the three department shifts are responsible to two sergeants. Wilmoth said the confusion begins when officers receive orders from more than one superior.

"There should be established, clear and unequivocal lines of authority," Wilmoth said.

He added that first-line supervisors play a more important role as department disciplinarians than any other rank.

Wilmoth claimed that adding the shift commander position will leave no question of authority, eliminating confusion. The position would also allow for a better distribution of work loads for all sergeants.

Lack of road supervision would also be resolved, according to Wilmoth. Currently, road supervision is 43 percent pre-scheduled each month. To ensure at least one of the two shift sergeants are working, road supervision and close supervision of the patrol officers' activities have diminished, Wilmoth explained. He said the promotion of three sergeants would allow for 100 percent pre-scheduling.

The cost of these promotions, Wilmoth said, is comparable to the $7,000 in overtime paid for the first eight months of the year to ensure at least one sergeant works one of three shifts every day.

He explained that a sergeant's top rate of pay, $16 per hour, is $1.90 higher than a patrol officer's top rate. That increase, multiplied by the 2,080 hours a sergeant works each year, equals a $2,481.99 increase in salary per position for one year. The total expense for the three new positions would be $7,445.99 Wilmoth calculated.

Most council members agreed with the importance of clear, constantly available supervision, but some were concerned about the costs of the promotions.

Noah Bergeron feared that one sergeant placed in charge of two other sergeants would insist upon lieutenant's pay.

'See how they run' Romulus students take center stage

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

High school drama has an energy and excitement all its own.

Most productions are composed of a group putting a great deal of work into having a good time.

During rehearsal for their upcoming production of See How They Run, Romulus High School students discussed what it takes for a play to succeed. All agreed time and effort is an important factor.

Assistant Student Director Cherie Eastman said for a play to stand out, everyone involved must give their all.

"It takes a lot of hard work, practice and a lot of people willing to dedicate their time," she said.

Eastman says despite the demands, she loves acting and has been involved with student plays since 10th grade. She has not decided whether she will continue acting professionally after graduation.

"I think about it a lot," she said.

Other cast members were also excited about the play and performing in general.

"It's extreme fun. I love to act," said Sharon Walker, who portrays a British maid with a very realistic cockney accent. She said she picked up the accent from watching television.

Putting personality into a role is important, Walker said. A successful play needs "...good direction and actors who aren't scared to be loud and act," she added.

She said that local theater is a possibility for her after high school.

Mike Rains, who filled in as a faculty director during dress rehearsal, said he is impressed with the energy students are pouring into the play. He is enthusiastic with the potential for winning over audiences.

"I think they've selected a fun play," he remarked. "See How They Run" is a British comedy full of hidden identities and colorful characters, he said. "They have some good talent here and some very funny lines."

This student production will be the first that Romulus students have performed in two years, according to Rains. He added that the regular director is experienced, but over-extended with other projects.

Meanwhile, approximately 25 to 30 students are offering their own time to make this play work. Aside from acting, three students were responsible for behind-the-scenes work, including costumes and set.

As far as Rains is concerned, when a good student production begins, it is almost magical.

"The actors have to catch fire and fill the whole building with character," he said.

School programs to be saved at the hands of area voters

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

After three rejections by voters earlier this year, two millage proposals for Romulus Community Schools were approved Tuesday.

The millages were put on the ballot to help end a $1.4 million operating-budget deficit.

Now that the two proposals have been passed, a 4.5-mill tax increase will be put into operation for the 1988-89 school year. That millage passed, 3,664 yes votes to 2,740 opposing votes.

A 2-mill tax increase will occur during the 1989-90 and 1990-91 school years. The second proposal received 3,414 supporting votes and 2,692 no votes.

Superintendent Dr. William Bedell said he expects to see the general operating budget for the school system nearly balanced by June 30, 1989, the end of this fiscal year. He expects a complete balance by June, 1990.

The threat of extensive school program cutbacks posed by the deficit are no longer a concern, Bedell said. Instead, projects which had been placed on the back burner until the millages passed are now possible.

Among these projects are modernization of the elementary schools in the district and remodeling of the high school. Bedell said both projects would be enacted in stages and would be funded by bond money.

The threat of extensive program cutbacks posed by the deficit are no longer a concern, (William) Bedell said. Instead, projects which had been placed on the back burner until the millages passed are now possible. Among these projects are modernization of the elementary schools in the district and remodeling of the high school.

Taxpayers, however, will not be paying additional monies due to a rollback in other areas.

Participation in a joint venture for a new community center with the current Romulus Recreation Center is also possible for Romulus schools now. Included in the plans for the proposed project is a swimming pool for the schools.

Bedell said he is concerned with utilizing the funds provided by the millages carefully.

"We've got to make the money last as long as we can," he said.

One way to achieve this goal, he said, is to negotiate labor contracts carefully.

Despite earlier rejections of the millage proposals, Bedell said he is not surprised they passed last week. He admitted confusion existed about the language of the proposals, which falsely suggested voters would pay higher taxes. In October, nearly 100 volunteers began an "education campaign" to explain that the millages would merely represent a transfer from a debt account to the general account.

Bedell said that once voters understood the millages and the implications of rejecting them, they came through for the school district.

"It is remarkable the degree the parents in this district support their schools," said Bedell. "When we really get to the point where we are in trouble, parents come through."

Carol Bales, who was active with the campaign to promote the millages, was also proud of the voters.

"I was just really pleased with the Romulus voters that they supported their schools," she said.

Bales added she had expected the millages to pass, but was surprised with the high margin of support. "It appears the community has faith in their school," she said.

Revised homes incentives to encourage development

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Increased housing development has always been a central goal for the city of Romulus.

Now city officials are planning to revitalize a program proposed to meet that goal, the Home Incentive program.

When presented with a revised draft outlining the program, city council members said they agree with the basic goals and concept but would like to see a more specific outline.

The program was first introduced two years ago. Dennis Meagher of community development explained the program. It would consist of an incentive package including an offer of a city-owned lot for a minimum of $100. Participants would be given a waiver of building permit fees.

Since the program is designed to assist low- and moderate-income families, those eligible would receive a direct grant up to $2,000 to cover costs of site preparation, utility installation, closing costs or other administrative costs.

The grants would come from a Community Development Block Grant and would only be available to Romulus citizens. It would be provided on a reimbursement basis.

Also proposed, is a city listing of residential builders who have asked to be referred to potential home buyers.

If successful, Meagher said, the program would encourage

State tuition plan has local critics

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

With just two weeks remaining before the deadline to register for the Michigan Education Trust program, some criticisms about the value of the pre-paid tuition plan have been raised.

The MET contract provides full tuition benefits at any of the public four-year universities or two-year community and junior colleges after prepayment is made to the MET fund. The amount of the prepayment is based on the age of the child and the number of years of tuition which will be covered.

Some critics of the plan have said the fund is not a good deal when compared with investments such as mutual funds, tax-deferred annuities or insurance policies. They believe that parents who put the same amount of money in some other form of investment could make enough to pay the tuition costs plus the fees for room, board and books—costs which are not covered under the MET program.

However, many parents and grandparents favor the plan because they do not have to discipline themselves to save for the child's college education, and do not have to investigate the alternate investment possibilities. In addition, although other investments may earn greater returns, the MET plan guarantees that it will keep pace with tuition costs.

"Parents should first look into mutual funds, certificates of deposit and life insurance before signing up for the MET," said Rex Ryckman, an insurance agent from Sumpter Township. "After talking to a financial planner or an insurance representative, I believe that most people will find an alternative to the MET will make more financial sense to them."

Ryckman criticized the MET for its lack of flexibility if the child does not attend college or chooses a private college rather than a public university.

"If the child decides not to go to college, the refund amount to the MET purchaser will be based on the lowest tuition cost for a state public college or university and will be paid over a four-year period beginning when the child reaches the age of 18. If the child is named as the designated beneficiary in the contract, then the money would be paid to him," Ryckman said. "If the child chooses to attend a private college or an out-of-state college, then an amount equal to the prevailing average tuition cost will be transferred—amount which is unknown at this time."

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

3 teachers are laid off

Because of low enrollment, Romulus school board members approved a recommendation to lay off three teachers at the Beacon Center.

The Romulus-based school for the emotionally impaired serves children from communities throughout Wayne County.

School officials expected an enrollment of 200 children this year, but were faced with a total of 170, according to Dr. William Bedell, superintendent of schools. The center was overstaffed for that enrollment, he said.

New corporation eyes Romulus

Woodbridge Corporation, which is interested in constructing a facility in the Oakwood Industrial Park, is requesting a nine-year tax abatement from the city.

Company officials claim the development would bring 265 new jobs to Romulus.

A public hearing on the issue has been scheduled for Dec. 5 at 7:45 p.m. in city council chambers.

Historical park plan continues

With approval from the city council, Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally has decided to award a bid for creation of a historical park in the city.

McKenna Associates will be awarded a bid for $6,500 plus $53.75 per hour for construction supervision.

Citizen outcry has paid off

For the second time, city council has approved a rezoning from light industrial to heavy industrial in Romulus for Precision Hardware.

The rezoned parcel, 13 acres, is one parcel west of the original site, which was the subject of local protest.

The protests began after the parcel of land on the south side of Van Born, east of Cogswell, was designated wetland. Soon after, 47 surrounding residents signed a petition opposing the rezoning.

The new rezoning was approved Monday.

Arts Council to host reception

The Romulus Arts Council is planning a reception honoring students and businesses participating in the "Art in the Workplace" program.

The public is welcome to the event, "Fall Into Art," which is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. this Tuesday at Holiday Inn-Metro Airport.

The council is requesting $10 donations per person.

Naval cadets planning trip

The naval science cadets at Romulus High School are planning an orientation visit to the naval station in Norfolk, Virginia from Nov. 28 to Dec. 1.

Cadets will tour several U.S. naval ships and visit aviation squadrons at the station, the largest naval base on the east coast.

Also planned is a visit to historic sites in the area such as Fort Monroe and Yorktown.

Between 30 and 35 cadets will participate.

Pet holidays are staged at shelter

A pre-holiday dog wash will be sponsored by the Michigan Humane Society Westland shelter from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 20.

The event, staged at the shelter, 37255 Marquette Road, Westland, will include bath and blow dries ranging from $10 to $50, based on size of dog and coat condition.

Nail trims are $5 extra. Baths are by appointment only.

Teens: Community reflects need for services

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Solutions to teen health concerns is becoming a continuous source of debate among Romulus citizens.

At a meeting of the Romulus Adolescent Health Advisory Committee Thursday, some parents claimed their teens need more information about substance abuse and sex.

Others insist young people are confused with too much information, while the importance of morality has been overlooked.

Kathleen Conway, project director for the teen health study, said despite the disagreements, she is pleased citizens agree problems do exist and something must be done.

The committee, which was established to investigate the health behaviors and needs of Romulus teens, has received grants from the Michigan Department of Public Health for the past two years.

Throughout that period, the committee has stirred controversy. The major concern of opponents is that the committee will eventually recommend a teen health center to the Romulus Board of Education.

A number of people said they fear such a center would provide or encourage birth control services. These people believe a clinic would undermine their authority as parents and fail to emphasize the importance of morality to young people.

Representatives of the committee maintain that a clinic is only one option under consideration. Furthermore, they have said, no contraceptives or abortions would be provided. A Michigan law prohibits any school-based clinic from dispensing birth control devices or referring a student to any facility providing abortions for any reason.

During the committee meeting staged Thursday, teen health concerns were examined on a broad basis. Rather than considering possible solutions, those in attendance were asked to list the actual problems young people face today. Lack of family structure, emotional and physical abuse, substance abuse, lack of morality or guidance and the influence of television and peers were issues raised by citizens in the audience.

"Young people are facing problems we didn't have to face until we were in our 20s, 30s or even," said one committee member.

A number of people said teens need more involvement from parents in their education and difficult decisions.

After the meeting, Conway agreed that regardless of the committee recommendation, parental involvement is crucial to help teens.

"One of the things about this community is it has very low participation by parents," she said.

Because of that, Conway said she is encouraged by the strong reaction the committee has raised. She added that any recommendation offered by the committee will be based on community input.

"We don't want to do something the community doesn't want," Conway explained.

Options being considered for Romulus teens include transportation systems to other clinics that could provide services such as required immunizations for school and a referral system.

The committee will also consider supplementing the work of the one nurse for the school district.

The committee will offer the board of education a recommendation in February.

Art admiration

Landfill switch nears approval

Romulus is moving forward in solving the problem of solid waste disposal.

Currently, Romulus has a commercial contract with Wayne Disposal for solid waste. The company raised dumping fees from $5 to $8 per cubic yard Nov. 1. Officials at Wayne Disposal have said they will no longer accept household and municipal wastes after the city contract expires Dec. 31.

Mayor Beverly McAnally said the option of using a Riverview landfill for Romulus solid waste remains a possibility.

Riverview officials have offered Romulus an 18-month contract at $1 less than the current $5.50 per-cubic-inch commercial rate.

McAnally met with officials and Romulus attorneys Monday afternoon to discuss the contract. She said some changes were drafted in the document, including liability issues for the city of Romulus.

The contract will be presented to the Romulus city council for approval at the Nov. 30 meeting, McAnally said.

Meanwhile, the city will also concentrate on increasing recycling and composting methods as methods of solid waste disposal, according to the mayor.

In fact, McAnally is considering the establishment of a volunteer committee to assist with increasing city cleanup and recycling.

McAnally said plans such as the recently proposed Wayne County program for cutting down solid wastes are a necessity, but use of recycling methods is an important means to reach the goal of the plan.

New city contract to improve sewers

Final resolutions on a sewage service agreement for Romulus have been approved by city council members.

The supplemental agreement brought before the council is part of the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley/Wastewater Control System Finance and Service Agreement. The original version was approved by council members in March.

Romulus is one of 16 communities participating in this sewage improvement project. The city will be responsible for providing $50,000, the least amount among the participants. Federal funding will supply $35,000 for Romulus improvements.

James Murray, director of public works for Wayne County, addressed the council and explained that the supplement to the agreement includes revisions requested by other participating communities. Since Romulus is strictly financing local sewer improvements, it is unaffected.

Murray said the supplement also includes financing information and federal funding requirements.

The projects were originated in 1961 to place a number of Wayne County communities under compliance with state and federal clean water acts.

He added that Romulus improvements will be completed in a year and a half.

Houses

the construction of new homes within the city and reduce the number of city-owned lots.

Currently, the city owns more than 250 lots suitable for single-family residences. The city receives no taxes from this vacant property.

"Hopefully, this is a step toward really encouraging people to build," said Mayor Pro Tem Mary Ann Banks.

Besides bringing in tax revenue, city officials believe an increase in population would encourage retail development in the city.

Meagher said he would like to add to the existing priority system. According to the current draft, first priority of site selection would be offered to current Romulus residents living in the Ecorse Community Subdivision south of Smith Road. Land development near the subdivision, including the expansion of Metro Airport, is diminishing the desirability of the property.

The draft lists other Romulus residents as second priority.

Meagher wants the revised plan to consider home buyers from other communities as third priority (only entitled to low lot price), and interested developers as a fourth priority.

Some council members want additional provisions.

Banks said she questions the two-year completion requirement outlined in the current draft. She said one year to 18 months is a more reasonable time period.

She added that provisions for review of the program after a certain time period should be included in the drafted plan.

Fred Junior Block said the limitations of the program should be clearly outlined. For example, homeowners should understand that the only fees waived, under the program would be for building permits.

Block also was concerned about the quality of housing the program would bring to Romulus. He said he would not want to see a "two-piece modular home" placed in an established subdivision with more expensive, nicer homes.

Meagher assured him that all construction would be approved by a special committee and city council to ensure it meets city requirements.

Meagher said he will try to complete a new draft of the plan in time for the next city council meeting.

Police

the promotions are justified but spending should be limited as much as possible.

"Everyone keeps asking for more. Where's the more coming from?" he asked.

Wilmoth stressed that Romulus continues to grow, and the need for a strong police force will also increase. Reaching that goal is time consuming, and the time to build a staff of experienced, skilled, staff leaders is now, he said.

"It's a long transition from patrol officer to supervisor," said Wilmoth.

Hale Creek students collect food for needy

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Several families from the Halecreek Elementary School community, in Romulus, should be a little happier this Thanksgiving.

Thanks to parents, teachers and students of Halecreek, some needy Romulus families will be able to eat this Thanksgiving.

Since Nov. 1, students have been collecting food at the school. The food will go to selected families in the area, according to Geraldine Croft, second-grade teacher at the school and organizer of the food collection for the past 15 years.

"Every year, for the past 15 years, we have a food collection for the needy families of the Halecreek community. Eventually it has worked out where people are donating turkeys," Croft said. "I have the students bring the food in, mostly it's my second- graders. But there are students that I've had from years before that know I'm doing this and they bring in some things."

After the food is collected, it is distributed to selected families by Halecreek Principal Arthur McPharlin and custodian Bob Garry.

Donations this year are coming in a little slow, but Croft said more donations should be in soon because parent/teacher conferences are being staged this week.

"During the conferences is always a big week for us. That is when I can tell the parents to bring some food in. It should really take off then," she said.

Croft believes the students learn a great deal from the food collection.

Last year enough food was collected to put together approximately four baskets for the needy families. This year, Croft said she would like to deliver five baskets. Food donations are needed before Nov. 23.

Individuals wishing to make a donation should call the school at 942-0140 and ask for Geraldine Croft or Arthur McPharlin.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION
SOUTH HURON VALLEY
SOUTH HURON VALLEY UTILITY AUTHORITY

These Articles of Incorporation are adopted by the incorporating municipal corporations for the purpose of creating an Authority under the provisions of Act 233, Public Acts of Michigan, 1955, as amended.

ARTICLE I

The name of this Authority is "South Huron Valley Utility Authority." The principal office of the Authority will be located at 21313 Telegraph, Brownstown, Wayne County, Michigan 48183.

ARTICLE II

The names of the municipal corporations creating this Authority are: The City of Romulus, The City of Gibraltar, The City of Flat Rock, The City of Woodhaven, The Charter Township of Brownstown, The Charter Township of Huron, The Charter Township of Van Buren, and the Village of South Rockwood, which are hereby designated as the constituent municipalities.

ARTICLE III

The purpose of this Authority is to acquire, construct, finance, purchase, own, improve, enlarge, extend and operate a sewage disposal system, a solid waste management system, and/or a water supply system in accordance with the authorization of Act 233, Public Acts of Michigan, 1955, as amended. Further, that it is the foremost purpose of this Authority to serve residents of the Townships and Cities efficiently, economically, and to reduce costs where reasonably possible, with a good quality and uniform system for water, solid waste, and wastewater treatment that will adequately serve their needs.

ARTICLE IV

This authority is a body corporate with power to sue or to be sued in any court of this State. It shall be comprised of all the territory embraced within the corporate boundaries of its constituent municipalities. It shall possess all of the powers granted by statute now in effect or hereafter adopted or amended, and by these Articles, and those incident thereto. The enumeration of any powers herein shall not be construed as a limitation upon its general powers unless the context shall clearly indicate otherwise. It shall have a corporate seal.

ARTICLE V

This Authority shall continue in existence perpetually or until dissolved by act of the parties or by law: Provided, however, that it shall not be dissolved if such dissolution would or could operate as an impairment of its bonds or of any of its contracts.

ARTICLE VI

The fiscal year of the Authority shall commence on the 1st day of January in each year and end on the 31st day of December of the following year.

ARTICLE VII

The governing body of the Authority shall be a Commission of eight members, which shall be made up of the Mayors, Supervisors and Village President of each constituent municipality. Each constituent municipality shall also designate a member of its legislative body as an alternate Commissioner, who shall exercise all powers of that municipality's Commissioner in his or her absence or disability. Each Commissioner shall qualify by taking the constitutional oath of office and filing it with his or her respective City, Township or Village Clerk. The alternate Commissioners of the first Commission shall be designated by the legislative bodies of the constituent municipalities within twenty days after the effective date of the incorporation of this Authority. Successor alternate Commissioners shall be designated by the legislative bodies of the respective constituent municipalities before the first day of January after the election of the legislative body.

Within thirty days after the effective date of the incorporation of the Authority, the members of the first Commission shall qualify by taking the constitutional oath of office and shall meet for the purpose of organization. At such organizational meeting the Commission shall select a Chair and Vice Chair, who shall be members of the Commission, and a Secretary and a Treasurer, who need not be members of the Commission. Such officers shall be serve until the organizational meeting of the following year, which shall be held annually on the first business day of January of each year, or until their respective successors shall be selected and qualify. No appointment to the Commission and no selection of an officer of the Commission shall be deemed to be invalid because it was not made within or at the time specified in these Articles.

The Commissioners shall serve without compensation except that each Commissioner shall be entitled to reimbursement for all expenditures made in carrying out official duties, including a reasonable allowance for traveling expenses.

ARTICLE VIII

In the case of temporary absence or disability of any Commissioner, the alternative Commissioner from that municipality shall act in his or her stead. In the event of a vacancy in any office of the Commission, such vacancy shall be filled by the Commission for the unexpired term. In case of the temporary absence or disability of any officer, the Commission may appoint someone to fill the position. In the event of the death, resignation or removal of the Chair, the Vice Chair shall so act.

ARTICLE IX

Meetings of the Commission shall be held at such time and place as shall be prescribed by resolution of the Commission. Special meetings of the Commission may be called by the Chair or any two Commissioners, by serving written notice of the time, place and purpose thereof, upon each Commissioner, personally, or by leaving it at his or her place of residence, at least twenty-four hours prior to the time of such meeting, or by depositing the same in a United States Post Office or mail box within the geographic limits of the Authority, at least seventy-two hours prior to the time of such meeting, enclosed in a sealed envelope properly addressed to him or her at his or her home or office address, with postage fully prepaid. Special meetings of the Commission at which all members are present, or which all absent members receive notice, shall be deemed to be valid even though no written notice thereof may be given as above specified. A majority of the Commission, (five members) shall be required for a quorum. The Commission shall act by motion, resolution or ordinance. For the passage of any resolution or ordinance providing for services to non-constituent municipalities, the issuance of bonds, the execution of any contract wherein contractual payments are to be pledged as security for bonds, or the amendment of these Articles, or the approval of any contract for construction or repair which exceeds Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($500,000.00), there shall be required a favorable vote of all eight Commissioners. For all other matters a vote of a majority of the Commissioners present shall be sufficient for passage. The Commissioner shall have the right to adopt rules and by-laws governing its procedure which are not in conflict with the terms of any statute or of these Articles. The Commissioner shall keep a journal of its proceedings, which are not in conflict with the terms of any statute or of these Articles. The Commission shall keep a journal of its proceedings, which shall be signed by the Chair. All votes shall be "yeas" and "nays", except that where the vote is unanimous it shall be only be necessary to so state. Each member shall be required to vote on all matters unless he or she shall be disqualified therefrom. No member may vote on any matter in which he or she has a personal interest.

ARTICLE X

The Chair of the Commission shall be the presiding officer thereof. Except as herein otherwise provided, he or she shall not have any executive or administrative functions other than as a member of said Commission. In the absence or disability of the Chair, the Vice Chair shall perform the duties of the Chair. The Secretary shall be the recording officer of the Commission. The Treasurer shall be custodian of the funds of the Authority and shall give to it a bond conditioned upon the faithful performance of the duties of his office. The cost of said bond shall be paid by the Authority. All monies shall be deposited in a bank or banks, to be designated by the Commission, and all checks or other forms of withdrawal therefrom shall be signed by the Treasurer and one other officer if the Authority. The officers of the Commission shall have other powers and duties as may be conferred upon them by the Commission.

The Commission shall prepare, adopt, and submit to the legislative bodies of the constituent municipalities an annual budget covering the proposed expenditures to be made for the organizing and operation of such Authority, and for the next fiscal year beginning January 1st, such budget to be submitted on or before December 1st of the preceding year.

ARTICLE XI

The Authority shall possess all the powers necessary to carry out the purposes thereof and those incident thereto. It may acquire private property by purchase, construction, lease, gift, devise or condemnation, either within or without its corporate limits, and may hold, manage, control, sell, exchange or lease such property. For the purpose of condemnation it may proceed under the provisions of Act 149, Public Acts of Michigan, 1911, as now or hereafter amended, or any other appropriate statute.

ARTICLE XII

The Authority and its constituent municipalities may enter into a contract or contracts providing for the acquisition, purchase, construction, improvement, enlargement, extension, operation and financing of a sewage disposal system, a solid waste management system, and/or a water supply system, as authorized and provided in Act 233, Public Acts of Michigan, 1955, as amended. The Authority may enter into contracts with any non-constituent municipality, as authorized and provided in said Act, for the furnishing of sewer, solid waste, or water service from any facilities owned or operated by the Authority, which contract shall provide for reasonable charges or rates for such service furnished. No contracts shall be for a period exceeding forty years.

ARTICLE XIII

For the purpose of obtaining funds for the acquisition, construction, improving, enlarging or extending of a sewage disposal system, solid waste management system, and/or a water supply system, the Authority may, upon ordinance or resolution duly adopted by it, issue its negotiable bonds, secured by the contractual full faith and credit pledges of each contracting municipality, in accordance with and subject to the provisions of Act 233, Public Acts of Michigan, 1955, as amended.

ARTICLE XIV

The Authority may issue self-liquidating revenue bonds in accordance with the provisions of Act 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended, being Sections 141.101 to 141.139, inclusive, of the Compiled Laws of 1948, or any other act providing for the issuance of revenue bonds, which bonds shall be payable solely from the revenues of the sewage disposal, solid waste management, and/or water supply system. The charges specified in any contract or contracts securing said bonds shall be subject to increase by the Authority at any time if necessary in order to provide funds to meet its obligations. Any contract authorized herein shall be for a period of not exceeding forty years.

ARTICLE XV

The Authority may employ such personnel and employees as it may consider desirable, and may retain from time to time the services of attorneys and engineers, and fix the compensation therefor.

ARTICLE XVI

The Authority shall cause an annual audit to be made of its financial transactions by a certified public accountant and shall furnish at least seven copies thereof to each constituent municipality.

ARTICLE XVII

These Articles shall be published once in the Associated News - The Romulus Roman, Huron Valley New Herald, The News Herald, and the Belleville Enterprise, which newspapers have general circulation within the limits of the Authority. One printed copy of such Articles of Incorporation, certified as a true copy thereof, with the date and place of publication shall be filed with both the Secretary of State and the County Clerk of the County of Wayne within thirty days after the execution thereof has been completed.

William J. DeBlasi, is hereby designated as the person to cause these Articles to be published, certified and filed as aforesaid. In the event he shall be unable to act or shall neglect to act, then Charles E. Wycoff shall act in his stead.

ARTICLE XVIII

This Authority shall become effective upon the filing of certified copies of these Articles, as provided in the preceding Article.

ARTICLE XIX

These Articles of Incorporation may be amended at any time so as to permit any other municipality to become a constituent municipality of this Authority, if such amendment to and the Articles of Incorporation are adopted by the legislative body of such other municipality, and if such amendment is adopted by the legislative body of each constituent municipality of which the authority is composed. Other amendments may be made to these Articles of Incorporation at any time if adopted by the legislative body of each constituent municipality of which the Authority is composed. Any such amendment shall be endorsed, published, and certified, and printed copies thereof filed in the same manner as the original Articles of Incorporation, except that the filed and printed copies shall be certified by the recording officer of the Authority.

Student chosen as finalist

Belleville High School senior Tobi Russell has been named a finalist in the 1988-89 U.S. Senate Youth Scholarship Competition. The student is eligible for a $2,000 scholarship and a trip to Washington D.C., which will be awarded near the end of this month.

Russell will be in competition with 22 other Wayne County high school seniors who were chosen as finalists.

Regional finalists were selected by a committee in the Wayne County Intermediate School District. Selections were based on leadership, scholastic standing, articulateness, achievement and community involvement.

Students attend Economic Club

Amy Grishasher and Melissa Golembiewski, both of Romulus High School and junior achievement students, recently attended an Economic Club of Detroit luncheon. Also at the luncheon were Louis A. Weil, III, president and publisher of the Detroit News and opinion analyst Louis Harris, of Louis Harris and Associates.

Play set at Halecreek

Students at Halecreek Elementary, in Romulus, will be treated to a performance with puppets and humor.

But then the humor will subside and reality will set in when students will be given a lesson about the day-to-day life of handicapped individuals.

"Kids on the Block," will be presented by traveling puppeteers who will describe how the handicapped child lives and relates to schoolmates.

Belleville students prepare for play

Rehearsals are in "full swing" at Belleville High School as students prepare for the Dec. 1, 2 and 3 performances of Mr. Hobbs' Vacation.

The play, directed by Karen Hunchberger, will be staged at 8 p.m. each day, with tickets available one hour before the performances. Advance ticket sales begin at the Belleville High School auditorium box office on Nov. 28.

The cast of characters feature Amy Lunde as Peggy Hobbs, Liz Marsh as Kate Hobbs and Billy Kosidlo as Roger Hobbs. Other cast members include Sean Kinlin, Fred; Holly Medleyd, Mrs. Gabrielson; Jason Hendrix, Byron; Amy Button, Jane; Jason Faler, Sam; Dorreen Geeseman, Emily; Tom Mayer, Martin; Ian Defibaugh, Kenneth; Brad Kelly, Harry; Alison Shirley, Joan; Nicholas Braguier, Salty, and Michelle McClure, Mary.

Working on set construction are Jason Cunliffe, William Frazier, Jeff Jahr, Michelle McClure, Phil Miller, Annmarie Oles, Jeanmarie Oles, Curtis Regentin, Jason Rennie, Angella Schlund, Vincent Sivils and David Wiczorek. Costumes are being handled by Kandy Howard, Shequila Lewis and Michelle O'Connor. Thomasina Rose is assistant to the director and make-up is being done by Cristy Cardinbal, Kellie Kennon and Mary Shell.

Set painters are April Ballesteros, Sue Frazier, Lori Hancock, Nikki Hansen, Sue Marosi, Marianne Morris, Virlena Reed, Wendy Wagner and Kathi Wilson.

Band director is tops with kids

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Forty-seven years is a long time to whistle dixie, but Richard Kruse, band director at Romulus Junior High School, has yet to have his lips tire.

The band director has been at the junior high for 23 years and administrators, teachers and students are glad he has remained. Kruse, 47, is dubbed one of the premier band instructors in the state - at least by his students.

The "music magician," as one student called him, began his music career in the fourth-grade band at an elementary school in Colonie, NY. When he was in sixth grade, he had the skills to play in the city high school band. He played the clarinet.

"I was named the First Chair Clarinet in the New York All-State Band. It was a very prestigious honor to be in that band," Kruse said.

From New York, he completed his education at the University of Michigan. He earned a bachelor of art degree in music performance and music education and a masters degree in wind instruments.

"I played in the U of M marching band where I was first clarinet. I was a featured clarinet soloist that went to the Soviet Union.

In addition to playing in Moscow and being on national television, Kruse also played at Carnegie Hall, in New York City.

From U of M, he came to teach at Romulus where he has been a hit with the teachers and students ever since.

At the junior high, Kruse directs the concert band and symphonic band. Both have had a long list of achievements.

"We've had a lot of first-place division winners. I have had 16 bands go to the state festivals and all have received first-division ratings. All of them have received a 'one' rating," he said.

In addition, Kruse's bands have won 22 of the last 23 state festivals. The year 1975 also chalked up the first time a Romulus school band went to the state festival.

Kruse also acts as the chairman of the state elementary band, sponsored by the Division of Michigan School Board and Orchestra Association. In addition to that, he teaches a music class at 7:45 a.m. every day at Halecreek Elementary in Romulus.

Richard Kruse's accomplishments speak for themselves. But some students speak for him as well.

One of those students is Georgette Wiginton, 13. She is an eighth-grade student in Kruse's second-hour music class.

"He gives us lots of rewards and parts and keeps us enthused about playing the instruments. He is very thoughtful of his students and tries to give them much support," Wiginton said. "He seems to be an inspiration to me and the other students when we play. The attitude of the students is that he is sweet and can give us a lot."

Standout students honored for efforts

Every week at Barth Elementary, in Romulus, students are chosen as students of the week for excelling academically and behaviorally or as bus riders of the week for exhibiting good behavior on the bus.

License plates to recognize veterans

Three new special-registration license plates honoring World War I veterans, Pearl Harbor survivors and combat-wounded veterans who received the Purple Heart were unveiled Thursday by Secretary of State Richard Austin.

An estimated 35,000 veterans are eligible to apply for the three plates, which are available for an initial $5 fee, in addition to the owner's vehicle registration fee.

The registrations must be renewed annually on the owner's birthday.

In addition to the new plates, state officials have altered the design of the prison-of-war license plates to read, "ex-prisoner-of-war."

The new plates are identical in color to the current Michigan plates, which feature a Lake Superior Blue background, with white letters and numbers. The only exception is the combat-wounded-plate, which features a decal of the Purple Heart medal.

Liquor Control hearing is set

Members of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission will stage a public hearing at 10 a.m. Dec. 6 at the Lincoln Park office, 2251 Dix Highway.

The Michigan Liquor Control Act requires two such hearings each year for the purpose of hearing complaints and receiving the views of the public with respect to the administration of the act. All government and enforcement officials, licensees and other interested people may attend.

Michigan Library to open Nov. 21

After three years of construction, the first phase of the new Michigan Library and Historical Center will be open to the public at 9 a.m. Monday, Nov. 21.

The Library of Michigan, the state version of the federal Library of Congress, is now housed in a new five-story facility, with more than 5.2 million items of 27 miles of shelving.

The Library of Michigan was founded in 1828. It stores compiled laws to 1805 and contains the 15th largest genealogical collection in the country.

Formal dedication of the building, at 717 W. Allegan St., two blocks southwest of the state capitol, in Lansing, will be staged at noon March 7. Special ceremonies are also slated the week of March 6 to 9.

Bond approval to aid environment

Proposals approved in the Nov. 8 election will allow state officials to sell bonds to fund massive environmental cleanup projects and public-recreation improvements.

The bond sale will generate at least $450 million for environmental cleanup, $150 million for solid-waste disposal, $60 million to improve local wastewater treatment facilities, $70 million for state-park improvements and $70 million for local recreation facilities and economic-development projects designed to increase recreational opportunities and attract tourists.

Crime victims now have added rights

Michigan voters last week approved a ballot proposal to include crime victims' rights in the state Constitution.

The amendment guarantees that victims have the right to fair treatment, timely disposition of the case, reasonable protection from the accused through the judicial process, notification of an attendance at court proceedings, restitution and information about the conviction, sentencing, imprisonment and release of the accused.

State 911 network eyed

A statewide conference billed by organizers as a one-day cram course on how to establish a 911 emergency telephone service was staged last week in Lansing. The meeting was a predecessor of a statewide emergency telephone network.

The conference, "9-1-1 Michigan: The Building Blocks of a Statewide System," attracted more than 300 public officials, communications experts and concerned citizens from across the state.

"Statewide access to 9-1-1 is now possible," said Patricia Cuza, committee chairperson.

Locally, a regional 911 emergency telephone network is set to go on line in early 1989.

Citizens speak out Wayne County waste plan opposed

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Concerned residents and environmental groups filled Romulus City Hall Thursday night, voicing strong opposition to the newly drafted waste reduction plan for Wayne County.

The plan, created by the Solid Waste Implementation Committee of Wayne County, recommends a process to reduce solid waste by 75 percent by the year 2000. It includes four main objectives: promotion of public health, public involvement and waste reduction along with the enforcement of any laws necessary to achieve these goals.

Ultimately, according to the plan, waste would be reduced 45 percent by incineration, 30 percent by landfill, and 25 percent by recycling.

Wayne County currently rids 85 percent of its wastes through use of landfills, 10 percent is recycled and five percent is incinerated.

When addressing the committee at the public hearing, speakers repeatedly agreed waste reduction is needed in Wayne County, but they described the current plan as ineffective and an "unplanned plan." They accused committee members of providing futile, short-term solutions to long-lasting situations.

The plan, citizens said, does not realistically consider the impact on the environment, it fails to address commercial and industrial waste and lacks effective policies to enforce the practices it promotes.

Speakers condemned the plan for heavy reliance on incineration instead of recycling. They claim recycling would increase 15 percent, while incineration would go up 45 percent within the next 15 years if the current plan is implemented.

A number of speakers challenged the committee to reveal plans for the tons of toxic ash an incinerator would produce.

"When solid waste is reduced to ash you have a much more serious waste," said David Watson of Detroit. He added that the committee was acting without regard for the future.

One speaker produced a petition opposing the Detroit incinerator with 1,500 signatures.

Committee members said a site for toxic ash has not been established yet.

Several citizens recommended reducing the production of waste rather than the waste itself.

"We need to produce recyclable products...to stop the problem at its source," said Westland resident Don Ward.

He said he fears his community would rapidly become "Waste-land" if the current plan is implemented.

Others promoted use of economic incentives to encourage recycling such as a tax on non-recyclable materials.

In a physical display of concern, a group of Van Buren Township residents initiated a "green ribbon campaign." Green ribbons, representing concern for the environment and health dangers they believe the plan poses, were distributed during the hearing.

Also criticized was failure to include suggestions for the reduction of commercial and industrial waste in the plan.

Vickie Lions said the needs of the communities are not addressed in the plan. She, along with other citizens, disapproved of the plan which exempts communities offering to host landfills or incinerators from the responsibility of reducing waste. Instead of that incentive, Lions suggested more encouragement to recycle and equal emphasis placed on commercial and industrial waste.

Others agreed.

"We have to impose restrictions on industrial and commercial users," said John Plester of the Huron Valley Citizen's Association. He added that local communities feel the brunt of this plan.

Plester continued to suggest changes. He said policing powers should be turned over to the communities involved.

Current policies, such as a $1,000 fee for violating regulations of the landfill industry, are not strong enough, Plester added. Jan Katz of Detroit Recycling said the plan downplays the lack of accountability commercial and industrial businesses face in the plan.

After the hearing, Milton Mack, Wayne County commissioner and committee chairman, explained some of the rationale behind the plan.

Despite the outcry for an emphasis on recycling from those at the hearing, Mack doubted those people could completely represent feelings of the entire county.

"We have to respond to the demands of the local community, and the costs of recycling is going to be borne by the individual communities...If we go too far, it won't be approved," said Mack.

He said expecting more than a 25 percent reliance on recycling for waste removal would be unrealistic.

Furthermore, Mack said, landfills and incineration are practical options for the future. Landfills take less time to establish than recycling systems, he said, and incineration reduces waste volume by 90 percent, allowing for more storage. He called incineration a safe option as long as monofills, landfills strictly for incinerator ash, are used. He added that Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) testing is flawed and overstates the presence of heavy metals and ash resulting from incinerators.

Mack said his committee is not responsible for finding a site for the ash produced by incinerators. Instead, the committee will screen proposals from communities for landfills.

He admitted a problem would arise if no one steps forward with an offer to accept the ash.

Mack said he anticipates some changes in the plan before it is implemented.

State lawmakers busy, as session nears end

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

State legislators have just a few weeks remaining in the 1988 session. And for many, it's a time to wrap up bills and turn proposals into laws.

"It's pretty hectic around here," said Rep. Lynn Owen (D-Sumpter).

"Everyone has their own individual bills that they want to get pushed through before the session is over."

One of the more important issues facing both the senate and the house of representatives is the school-sales tax proposal.

"There is a great deal of controversy because each school would be affected differently," said Sen. Robert Geake (R-Canton).

The increase in sales tax, which would pay for school reform, could affect in-formula schools differently than out-of-formula districts.

In-formula districts receive state aid. Out-of-formula districts are districts which don't receive state aid and are supported solely by tax millage levies.

State officials are trying to get the school-sales tax bill written up for a special election in March.

"The objective is to reduce the gap between the highest and lowest spending districts," said Rep. James Kosteva (D-Canton). "The hope is to bring equity to school financing."

Kosteva doesn't know if the bill will be ready by spring.

"I think it's a 50-50 chance," he said. "Some days it looks like there will be a compromise and the next day it looks bad."

Owen, who along with Rep. Justine Barnes (D-Westland), Rep. Gerald Law (R-Canton) and Kosteva won reelection last week, has been working on several environmental bills.

"One of them is dealing with incinerator ash," Owen said. "This type of ash shouldn't be dumped into a solid waste landfill. I am trying to get this ash treated as at least a special waste."

"It's a dangerous habit to dump this type of ash into a solid waste landfill."

Owen said legislators have a large number of bills to be addressed, but believes his major issues will be addressed.

Law, who also has several issues of concern to him, would like to have his concerns addressed.

"I don't see any problems because the two bills I am trying to get passed have no opposition," he said. "With no opposition, it's just a matter of getting them done before the session is over."

The first bill deals with regulation of credit repair shops.

"These are the places that tell people they will give them good credit and change their credit rating when they can't," Law said.

Law is also working on a privacy act, which would prevent people from receiving information on movies a person rents from video stores.

Opinion

Don't dispose of your eggs all in 1 basket

The issue continues to be a burning one, igniting the ire of several area residents.

However, the solution to the solid-waste worries of this area, this state and this country cannot be found in recycling or incineration alone. Opponents of incineration and the Wayne County solid-waste plan should remember this and heed the following warning.

"Don't dispose of your eggs all in one basket."

The issue of solid waste and how we, as a society, will dispose of the tons of trash we produce every day - when the landfills we currently use are filled - is a most difficult one. Many residents who follow the solid-waste dilemma are quick to sound off and support only one method of waste disposal.

Many did so Thursday, at a meeting of the Solid Waste Implementation Committee of Wayne County, staged in Romulus.

For those who do not follow the solid-waste war and, thus, have formed no opinion of how to dispose of our residential, commercial and industrial garbage in the year 2000, we offer a brief explanation. The solid-waste worries of most Wayne County communities were made worse when county officials drafted a solid-waste plan that would eliminate local dependency on landfills by the year 2000.

In the plan, total waste products produced in Wayne County would be disposed of 45 percent by incineration, 30 percent by landfills and 25 percent by recycling.

Currently, 85 percent of all wastes in Wayne County are sent to landfills, 10 percent is recycled, and 5 percent is incinerated.

The plan has been criticized by community leaders and citizens because, they say, it should stress recycling over incineration. They also argue that the plan should be more stern with commercial businesses and industry.

County officials and members of the committee which created the plan are defending the document, saying it is an idea that works.

We believe the plan will, indeed, work - with some fine tuning - if everyone in the county understands the plan and supports it.

Most controversial in the solid-waste plan is a primary reliance on incineration. Critics of incineration say such a method of waste disposal is harmful to the environment. We disagree.

We point to the incinerators used by the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority to illustrate our point. For more than 20 years, residents in Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Dearborn Heights and Garden City have enjoyed autonomy from the problem of at-capacity landfills and have the solid-waste answer for the 1980s, the 1990s and beyond in their own back yard.

True, the Central Wayne incinerators were once shut down because they failed to meet federal clean-air standards. However, the more-than 20-year-old facility was re-vamped, new technology added, and federal clean-air standards have been fulfilled.

Critics also say that the toxic ash produced in incinerators will be harmful to the environment. Again, we point to the Central Wayne facility and the effectiveness and stability of the operation there.

To thwart our critics' bullets before they are fired, we are not saying that incineration is the only answer to our solid-waste worries. Wayne County officials are not planning to rely on one method, either.

We support recycling and feel residents and businesses should receive education and incentives to recycle more and more. After all, recycling is someday going to be a necessity for some waste disposal. The sooner we become accustomed to recycling our wastes, the easier this transition will be.

We also recognize the fact that incineration ash, metals and some other products must still be buried in landfills. But, if this use of landfills can be reduced sharply, the solid-waste plan proposed by Wayne County will be working.

Today, we urge friends and foes of the Wayne County solid-waste plan to broaden their support. While we, like the plan critics, feel this waste-reduction plan can be further refined, we urge those criticizing the idea to consider the feasibility of their proposals, the cost to communities and the ability to put those ideas into place.

We are confident that the Wayne County solid-waste plan - combining incineration, recycling and landfill use - will work. Now, it is up to the residents of this area to make it work, beginning with their support of the plan.

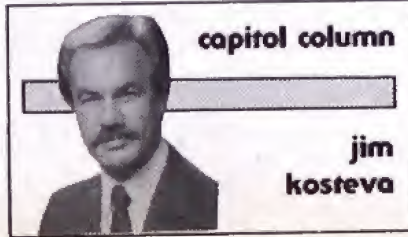

Underground environment must be protected

Buried beneath us throughout the state are thousands of underground storage tanks, many of which are leaking and posing a dangerous threat to our safety and to our environment. Approximately 90 percent of the Michigan underground storage tanks are filled with petroleum, which can be extremely dangerous to the environment, can cause explosions, fires and extensive groundwater contamination.

Experts also estimate that 20,000 of these underground storage tanks are leaking.

These leaking underground storage tanks are not given high priority on the federal Environmental Protection Agency cleanup list. Tanks containing petroleum are excluded from the federal Superfund program.

However, the state can receive funds from a federal cleanup trust fund specifically for petroleum leaks if the Michigan Department of Natural Resources can demonstrate it can take action on the problem of the Michigan leaking tanks.

To prove that we are serious about enforcing stringent rules dealing with underground storage tanks and to allow Michigan to continue to receive money from the trust fund, members of the state House have passed a bill that would regulate and correct releases from leaking storage tanks. The bill would require owners and operators of underground storage tanks to report all suspected releases from a tank to the DNR within 24 hours after learning that the release had occurred.

Legislation has also been introduced that would authorize fire marshals to regularly inspect underground storage tanks. Lawmakers hope this preventative measure would allow inspectors to spot aging or broken tanks before dangerous leaks occur.

In the past, people were only concerned with pollution they could see - smog in the sky or garbage and litter that were dumped in streams. But serious environmental contamination can happen underground, where we can't witness the spread of chemicals and leaking petroleum.

It is vital that we take strong steps to stop this type of pollution that can contaminate our drinking water, leak into the air we breathe and threaten us with fires and explosions.

This legislation addresses those problems and would lead to further clean up of dangerous lakes.

Jim Kosteva (D-Canton Township) is a state representative for the 37th state House district. His column appears here regularly.

Defense: Key to winning championships

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Teams live and die on defense. That's an adage most coaches who have been around preach. Accordingly, the 1988 Associated Newspapers' All-Area defense has some of the finest talent the state has to offer. Most of the candidates are being recruited by the blue chip colleges and universities, and some of the candidates look as if they are ready to play collegiate football right now.

Among the top candidates named to the ANP Honor Roll are Belleville's 6-0, 190-pound senior linebacker, Brian Hutchinson, who was voted the Tigers' Most Valuable Defensive Player. He had a total of 124 tackles - that's solos and assists - a pair of fumble recoveries and six tackles that resulted in huge enemy losses.

Hutchinson exemplifies the kind of rugged, raw talent gathered for the ANP defense.

The elite defensive team also includes: Ends - Damon Carter (Inkster) and Brian Gonczy (Belleville); Linemen - Eddie Miller (Romulus), Anthony Richendollar (Belleville), Lennell Brooks (Robichaud) and Guam Lee (Romulus).

Joining Hutchinson on the linebackers' corps are: Tim Parker (Robichaud), Rick Champagne (Romulus), Gary Johnson (Robichaud), and Carl Brown (Robichaud). The defensive half-backs are Maurice Brantley (Belleville), Tim Kosikowski (Romulus), Earl Casey (Inkster) and Mike Maull (Romulus).

Here's what these players accomplished during the recently concluded 1988 season.

GONCZY, a 6-1, 180-pound senior, was one player who forced the opposition to think twice before trying to run his end. A strong and fast athlete, Brian was selected the MVP for ends and linebackers and, according to Coach Dave McCarney, "is definitely college material."

CARTER, another defensive gem, is a 6-0, 190-pound junior who was the Vikings' hardest hitter. He chalked up 34 solo tackles and had five assists, according to Inkster Coach Alonzo Glaze. Damon is another who detoured enemy ballcarriers. "He's an intelligent player who is very coachable," Glaze said.

BROOKS is one of the reasons why Robichaud captured the Suburban Athletic Conference title this year. A unanimous SAC selection, Lennell is a 5-6, 160-pound dynamo who terrorized running backs that challenged him. "Brooks is tough and when all of the coaches agree he's one of the best in the field, well, that says something," said Yauck.

LEE is also small in stature but unstoppable when he sees an approaching ballcarrier. The 5-9, 180-pound sophomore is the only soph to break into the All-Area Defensive lineup. "Lee is special," said Romulus Coach Norb Glover. "He has all of the attributes of an outstanding player and, believe me, you're going to hear a lot about him before he ends his prep career."

RICHENDOLLAR has trimmed down from a 250-plus heavyweight wrestler, to an outstanding 5-10, 195-pound down lineman. Belleville's MVP on the defensive line, he was credited with 64 tackles and his best game was against Wyandotte when he floored the Bear quarterback for three consecutive huge losses. Tony also recovered two fumbles and has made the transition from offense to defense without a problem.

MILLER, a 280-pound, 6-2 junior will form the nucleus of the Eagles' team a year from now. He earned all-conference consideration in the tough South Central League. A three-year varsity starter, Glover said that Miller was switched to center to help bolster the Eagles' offensive output.

PARKER is making his second appearance on the elite team. He made the grade as a junior a year ago and this year formed the link that enabled the Bulldogs to come back from two cliffhanging nonconference losses to string six consecutive victories together to win the SAC title outright. "He is a tremendous asset," Yauck said. "And, needless to say, there's going to be a big void to fill when he graduates."

CHAMPAGNE is also a holdover from last year's squad. The Eagles' senior captain was a unanimous SSC pick after being credited with 104 tackles which included scores of solos. Romulus's MVP, Rick is also the team's leader and, in a season that didn't have many bright spots, he managed to rally his teammates every week which ended with a pair of victories at the end of the campaign.

JOHNSON, whose speed and wisdom forged a Robichaud defensive unit second to none in the area, also earned SAC recognition for the second consecutive year. The 5-6, 145-pound senior "has contributed immensely to the success of our team and program," Yauck noted. "When you consider we dropped our first two games by one point, and these kids could have buckled then. They didn't. It shows the class of player we have here."

BROWN, a 5-10, 165-pound senior who served as fullback on offense, displayed a never-say-die flair on defense. His pursuit

Yauck is coach of the year

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Losses hurt. There's no way around it. No denying it. When you lose, it's painful. And, after losing their first two nonconference games of the 1988 season, Coach Bob Yauck and Robichaud could have folded and played dead the rest of the way.

The Bulldogs didn't. And the reason is clear: Yauck's teams don't cave in. They may lose one or two, but Yauck hasn't had a losing season in the 15 years that he has been at the throttle of the grid machine.

Losing by one point to Saline in their season opener, and by one point to the their second outing could have been disastrous for the Dearborn Heights-based high school.

But on the rock of defeat, Robichaud went on to build a championship team. The Bulldogs struck back and won their next six games to capture the Suburban Athletic Conference title outright.

The Bulldogs missed making it to the Class B post-season playoffs when Bay City John Glenn, a Class A team, stopped them in the season finale.

For his achievements, Yauck has earned another post-season honor. He's the Associated Newspapers' Coach of the Year.

Bob Yauck

A former Big 10 Conference guard, Yauck has watched the Robichaud program grow over the years as one of the finest in the area.

One wonders how Yauck finds the time to field his teams. He serves as the principal at Robichaud High School and is involved in a myriad of tasks.

"I love coaching," he says. "Sports have been a part of my life as long as I can remember, and when my personal career ended, I decided to teach what I know to the kids."

"And I can say this: Coaching has its ups-and-downs and its frustrations. But, when you're working with young adults, it's gratifying to see them grow. It really isn't the winning that counts - even though it helps."

"I like to think our kids learn about life, the competitiveness in it, through athletics," Yauck added. "Obviously, I am very proud of what these kids have accomplished this year."

of ballcarriers was relentless. Always in the thick of the action, Carl finished with SAC recognition for the second year in a row.

BRANTLEY, a 6-6, 200-pound all-around athlete, was the Tigers' free safety. He picked off a pair of interceptions and his presence intimidated receivers heading into his zone. "Maurice has a lot of athletic ability," McCarney said. "It was just a pleasure to have someone like him with his athletic ability to come out and help us out." While Brantley was snagging missiles, college and university scouts were wondering what to do to get his signature on a letter of intent.

KOSIKOWSKI was an All-Area wrestler for Wayne Schimming's SCC title-winning team a year ago. Tim used his talents in the Eagle secondary this season and proved to be a standout at the job. "He made things happen out there," Glover noted. "He was one of the most consistent players we had in our lineup this year."

CASEY, a 6-2, 200-pound senior, did just about everything for Glaze's Vikings this season. He played quarterback and unveiled a passing arm that equalled, if not topped, former Viking great Oliver Gaston. Earl was selected on the SAC defensive team, but he could have easily been picked as the starting quarterback. Casey fired 57 passes this season and hit his target 35 times. He has a lot of college scouts looking at him.

MAULL, a 6-0, 185-pound senior, rounds out the 1988 Defensive Team. Considered one of the finest talents at the University of Michigan summer camp, Mike was unfortunately forced to the sidelines early in the campaign because of an injury. It did not stop him from coming back and having an outstanding second half. (Next week: ALL-AREA OFFENSE)

Inkster, Robichaud clash in 1st round of district basketball playoffs

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If Coach Dwight Hotchkiss finds enough players to field a team tomorrow night, the Inkster High girls' cage coach should have little, if any, problem getting past arch-rival Robichaud in the first round of the Class B district playoffs.

The two arch-rivals kickoff the playoffs 5:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Dearborn Heights' gymnasium.

However, the two local cage teams will find themselves in tough company as Divine Child, the defending state champ, will also make an appearance in that district. Others seeking district glory are Crestwood, Annapolis and Willow Run.

Hotchkiss and the Vikings easily handled their neighboring foes twice during the Suburban Athletic Conference campaign.

But, Inkster is hurting. They didn't make it through their scheduled game with Highland Park last week because of insufficient players. They were left with four players on the floor and the officials decided to call the game midway in the fourth period when the Parkers had established a 54-38 lead.

"We're hurting," admitted Hotchkiss whose club finished the 1988 SAC season with a 6-6 record. Robichaud was to play Our Lady of the Lakes (18-1) Monday evening in a nonconference contest. The Pontiac cagers are ranked among the top five in the Class D state rankings.

"We have several injuries including some to our key players," Hotchkiss noted.

Angie Thomas, the team's leading scorer and floor general, is hobbling around on a sprained ankle. Hotchkiss believes that Thomas will be ready for the playoffs.

"We're just thinking of getting by right now," the Inkster coach said. "As you know, you can't afford to lose. If you do, you're out."

The Inkster-Robichaud game will be played at 5:30 p.m. at the Dearborn Heights high school. The winner will advance to the semifinals where they will take on Willow Run, another Suburban Athletic Conference representative. That game is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 21.

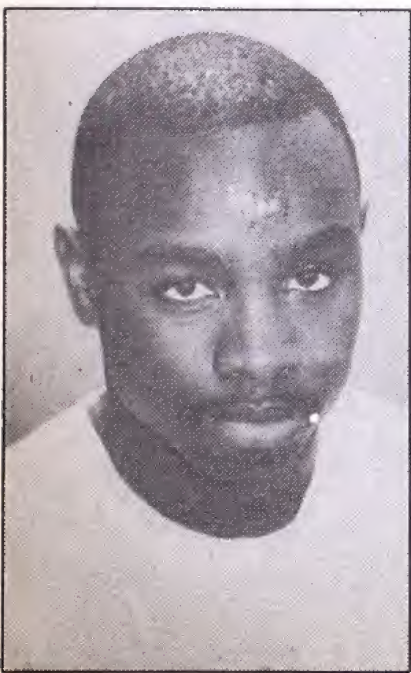

In the semifinal nightcap slated for 7:30 p.m., Crestwood plays the winner of the Divine Child and Annapolis game. D.C. and Annapolis have a 5:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 18 date.

The Class B district championship will be decided 5:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 23 at Robichaud.

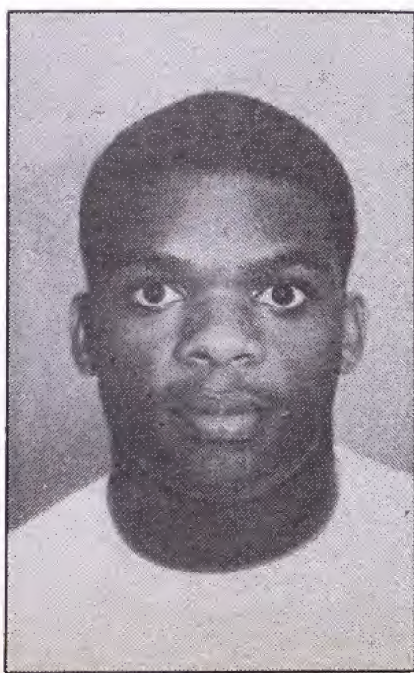

In league action last week, Inkster split. The Vikings destroyed Ecorse 43-26 as Thomas tossed in 12 points in her cameo appearance. Inkster worked its way to 13-5 and 23-13 leads for the first two periods before coasting to the low-scoring victory.

Highland Park jumped on the hobbling Vikings 15-5 in the first period, but Hotchkiss' girls refused to quit, although they were outmanned and outnumbered. They stayed in the game 36-21 at the half, but after falling behind by more than 20 in the third period and left with only four players after in the final eight minutes, they dropped their SAC finale to the Parkers 54-38.

Alexis Watson had a good evening as she scored 15 points and pulled down a dozen rebounds for the losers.

Catholic Central ousts Rockets from playoffs

By TERRY JACOBY
ANP Staff Writer

The Rockets showed no respect for Redford Catholic Central in the first quarter. And that made the top-ranked team in the state angry.

Never wake a sleeping giant. Or at least don't make him mad.

Westland John Glenn marched their opening drive 80 yards for a 6-0 lead but the rest of the game belonged to Catholic Central, advancing to the Class A semifinals with a 21-6 victory over the Rockets Saturday.

"It's going to take a great effort to beat that football team," said Glenn Coach Chuck Gordon, who believes Catholic Central will go all the way.

"I really don't see anyone beating them," Gordon said.

"They have an outstanding defense, and I don't see anyone scoring a lot of points on them."

The Rockets used up more than 10 minutes of the first quarter on their opening drive. It was just what Gordon wanted.

Glenn, led by running back Bryant Satterlee, marched down the field in 20 plays and converted on 4-5 third-down situations. They also proved they weren't going to be a conservative team on this Saturday afternoon.

On a fourth-down call from their own 30-yard line, Gordon decided to go for it.

The play that was called came as a shock to everyone in the stadium, if not the entire surrounding area.

The Rockets lined up in a shotgun formation and instead of snapping the ball to the quarterback, it was snapped short to Satterlee who bolted through the line for a first down.

Wayne axes 5 assistant football coaches

In an effort to bring back discipline and a winning tradition, Wayne Memorial officials have fired the entire football coaching staff except for Head Coach Chuck Howton.

The decisions were made by Howton and Wayne Memorial Principal Francis Winter.

Gone are Jim Zoltowski Sr., Jim Zoltowski Jr., Junior Varsity Coach David Kaitschuck and JV assistants Dave Florn and Danny McGraw.

"We are going to go with a completely new coaching staff except for myself," Howton said. "Things didn't work out as well as they have in the past, and I was placed in a position to make changes."

"They are unfortunate, but they had to be made."

Howton said a lack of discipline and a poor record this year were reasons for the changes.

"I thought we had some good athletes this year and we didn't do as well as we could have," he said. "We also had some turmoil and the season was not run like I wanted it to be run."

A difference in philosophy, especially with Zoltowski Sr., was another reason for the firings.

"There was a power struggle there," Howton said.

"I am in a position where things have to be done my way. That doesn't sound good, but we have to make sure we are going in the direction that I, as a head coach, want to go in."

Howton said the decisions made were his, but added that there were other problems upon which Winter acted.

Zoltowski Sr. was relieved of all coaching duties including his position as head wrestling coach because of an alleged incident where he struck a junior varsity player and because of swearing.

Zoltowski Sr. is recovering from a recent stroke which his doctor said was brought on by stress.

"That whole incident took place in 20 seconds during a halftime speech," Zoltowski Sr. said. "I told the team we were getting too many stupid penalties and if it continued we would lose the ballgame."

"It was an inspirational speech and none of the players were upset by it. As for the hitting part, I just grabbed a player by the shoulder pads and told him he had to stop getting called for stupid penalties."

Zoltowski Sr. said the incident was their excuse to get rid of him

"Mr. Winter had been upset with me because of how bad my junior varsity teams were beating everyone," Zoltowski Sr. said. "We were scoring so many points even though we had our second- and third-string players in the game. He felt I was embarrassing Wayne Memorial because we were winning by 40 points."

"My question is, on the JV level we rarely lose, but when these kids get on varsity they don't do as well. Two years ago we beat Monroe 35-7. And this year these same kids lost, not because Monroe improved, but because they didn't run an effective offense."

Zoltowski Sr. said that he has been coaching football for 20 years and the "f" word is often used.

"Football is an emotional game," he said. "Swearing, whether anyone likes it or not, gets the players motivated. I am not condoning it, but most coaches swear. I have heard Coach Howton swear often, but it's done to fire up the players."

Zoltowski Sr. is known as a "players" coach and was well-liked by the entire team, according to several players.

"Zol was like family," said a player, who didn't want to be identified. "The whole team feels that way. Both of them were like family to us and we respected them."

Senior quarterback Brian Tapp agreed.

No sweat: Huron advances to semi

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Thanks to the luck of the draw, New Boston Huron, the defending Class B district champ, drew a first-round bye in the district playoffs at Monroe Jefferson.

Coach Bill Harrison's Chiefs, who will enter the playoffs as one of the two favorites, will see action in the semifinal round. Their opponent will be the winner of the Ypsilanti Lincoln and Monroe Jefferson game.

The district playoffs will get underway at 6 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 17 at Jefferson with the host playing the first game. The nightcap will pit Milan against St. Mary's Catholic Central.

St. Mary's, one of two teams that beat Huron during the regular conference season, brings a 14-4 record into the battle. If any team is to unseat Huron, St. Mary's has the best chance.

Milan, struggling through the 1988 year, has an anemic 4-14 mark.

The first-round winners will advance to the semifinals scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 19. Huron enters the shooting at 6 p.m., while the winner of the Milan - St. Mary's game will play at 8 p.m. with Airport (6-12) providing the competition. The championship will be decided at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 21.

In the meantime, Romulus is hosting a Class A district tournament which will begin on Friday.

In the first round scheduled for 7 p.m., Nov. 18, Romulus will host neighboring Belleville. In their only encounter of the year, the Eagles managed to top Belleville.

Other teams seeking the district title are Taylor Kennedy, Southgate Anderson and Taylor Truman.

Bulldogs runners win title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

For Robichaud, it was a do-or-die meet.

Coach Jim Hadley's Bulldogs had split with Highland Park during the regular Suburban Athletic Conference cross country season and the Dearborn Heights runners were faced with a "must win" situation.

They did.

And it was relatively easy, according to the seasoned Robichaud coach.

"I thought it would be a struggle," said Hadley after his runners won the conference meet and assured themselves of the SAC title outright. "We came on very strong at the end of the season, and these kids got the job done."

And how.

Robichaud left little for speculation as Matt White and Billy Orsette nailed down the first two places. White won the conference individual title with a 17:57 for the 5,000-meter course, while Orsette placed second with a 17:58 effort.

Posting an enviable 9-1 league and 10-3 overall record, Robichaud runners (above) captured the 1988 version of the Suburban Athletic Conference cross country championship. The Bulldogs split during the regular dual meet season with Highland Park and needed to finish ahead of the Parkers at the SAC meet. With plenty to spare, the Bulldogs came through. The conference victory ended a 10-year title drought. Photo courtesy of Westwood Public Relations Department

The first two spots staked Robichaud to 32 team points, leaving Highland Park in second place with 45. The two conference leaders were followed by River Rouge (83), Inkster (102), Oak Park and Ecorse.

It was the first time since 1978 that Robichaud had claimed the conference title. And this is Hadley's best season since that year.

"The kids have worked hard for this honor and we're all proud of their efforts and accomplishments."

Others contributing toward the Robichaud victory are Frank Hayes, who finished fifth in 18:39; Rob Stewart, who had the 11th best time (19:36), and Robbie Patrick, who was 13th in 19:48. Francis Curto and Tony Lario accounted for the 17th and 19th places for the Bulldogs.

Robichaud also fielded the best girls' distance runner in the SAC this year. Margie Curto toured the 5,000-meter Cass Benton Track in 23:32 to win the gold.

Teammate Paul Teper also finished with a ninth.

The victory brought the curtains down on a 10-3 overall and a 9-1 conference year for the reigning champs.

Those schedules, please

With All Area football here, can the high school winter sports season be far behind?

The answer is definitely 'no.'

Most local high school basketball teams will play their first game of the 1988-89 season on Friday, Dec. 2.

And in order to give our local teams the best coverage in the Detroit Metropolitan area, the Associated Newspapers sports staff will need winter sports schedules.

If you haven't mailed (or dropped off) the schedules to our offices in Wayne, please do. That address is: Associated Newspapers, Sports Desk, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, MI. 48184.

If there is a new coach, would athletic directors please include his or her home telephone number.

For further information, please contact ANP staff writer Tom Mooradian at 729-4000.

The Rockets punted again and Catholic Central had just 1:21 to go 48 yards.

Hauncher completed three-of-five passes, including a 15-yard touchdown pass to Sean O'Keefe, as Catholic Central scored again with just 41 seconds on the clock.

"We moved the ball well on offense in the second half, but we didn't finish anything off. We stopped ourselves."

But 1988 won't be remembered as the year Glenn lost to Catholic Central. It will be remembered for an 8-2 record, a division championship and a group of players who made up one of the best eight football teams in the state.

"When you consider that we only had two starters back from last year, we had a very good season," Gordon said.

"We won our division, we beat Wayne for the city championship and we won eight games. To be one of the final eight teams in the state is a real credit to our kids."

"They've been a great bunch to coach."

Gordon will have to turn inexperienced players into veterans again next season. The Rockets will return 30 players from this roster, but only two offensive starters and four defensive starters are underclassmen.

"If we could come out and put some points on the board, we would be right back in it. But we had some penalties and turnovers that hurt us."

"I still thought we had a shot at them at halftime," said Gordon.

the goal line which gave them four chances to score.

Glenn quarterback Eric Stover hit receiver Gregg Anderson on a 4-yard touchdown pass as the Glenn crowd jumped to their feet.

Wes Taylor had his extra point attempt blocked by Lou Yeager, but Glenn was on the scoreboard.

"We hit on some things that seemed to work during that drive," said Gordon.

"That was the first time they have been scored on in five weeks and it gave everyone a lift."

But Catholic Central didn't fold up their tent and go home. They came right back.

Catholic Central quarterback Scott Hauncher, a 6-foot-4-inch senior, completed all three pass attempts and Dave Owens made several nice runs to lead Catholic Central to a quick march down the field.

Hauncher hit Yeager on a 7-yard scoring strike and Pete Elezovic kicked the extra point to give Catholic Central a 7-6 lead.

The drive took just three minutes to complete.

Glenn received the kickoff, but was penalized for motion on their first play. A pass play on third and 13 failed and Glenn punted.

Tigers swim for conference glory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Undeclared and state-ranked Trenton is an odds-on favorite to capture the 1988 Wolverine 'A' Conference girls' swimming & diving championships when the eight-team conference assemble today at Trenton.

"There is no doubt that they (Trenton) are the class of the league this year," said Belleville Coach Greg Cooper, whose club enters the championships sporting an excellent 5-1 league and 9-2 overall record. "They are going to be tough to beat."

Cooper said that his Tigers have matured in time to provide a challenge, but "we don't have a diver and that's going to hurt us."

"But the chemistry on this team is great. We have a blend of seniors who have helped bring the younger swimmers along. And that's why I feel optimistic that we are going to go well at this meet."

The championships will be staged three days beginning today with the preliminaries in diving. The swimmers will return to the pool on Thursday for the preliminary round and on Friday, the league will decide the championships.

In the meantime, Belleville made up a conference dual meet with Wyandotte which was cancelled because of some confusion in the starting time. There was no confusion, however, when the two teams took to the pool on Thursday. Belleville

The chemistry of this team is right. The seniors helped the underclassmen along and we've matured. We're a year or two away from being a legitimate title contender.

Belleville coach

le surfaced with a 99-73 victory, claiming six out of a possible 11 first places.

Gina Montie contributed two of those firsts as she turned in a 27.0 in winning the 50-yard freestyle. She came back and touched in at 1:00.7 to win the 100-yard freestyle.

Belleville also received a victory from Melanie Merritt's performance in the 500-yard freestyle. Merritt led the field and finished in a respectable 5:55.1. Christie Adkins accounted for the Tiger win in the 100-yard backstroke as she covered the distance in 1:15.5.

Kristin Curtis stashed the 100-yard butterfly event in the Belleville win column as she churned a 1:16.8 for the victory.

Coach

"I had a close relationship with Zol and it will hurt them next year because he really knows football," Tapp said.

"I think he was the best coach and shouldn't have been fired."

Tapp and Zoltowski Sr. agreed that the team could have been better disciplined.

"I think some players got away with more than they should have," Tapp said.

Zoltowski Sr. was more specific.

"We had a number of players who missed practices in August and I was told to call them and get them here," he said. "But if they don't want to practice and work hard, they shouldn't be here. Players started missing practice with regularity because if they did he (Howton) would still play them."

"There was a lot of discipline problems and they blamed me for them."

Zoltowski Sr. said the kids will suffer from this.

"There are a number of division one college players on that team," he said. "But they are not given a chance to prove it because their coach doesn't support them."

"A classic example is Mike Heard. He was one of the finest athletes to ever play at Wayne, but he (Howton) labeled him as having a bad attitude and that killed him."

"I'm not saying Mike is perfect, but the coaches or scouts should be allowed to judge for themselves."

Zoltowski Jr. echoed the words of his father.

"Sure I am upset about not coming back," he said.

"But what I am more upset about is that next season there will be no one there for the kids."

No replacements have been named.

BUSINESS DIGEST

Employers urged to aid 'Smokeout'

Area business owners and employees are being urged to support the Great American Smokeout tomorrow, officials from the Detroit chapter of the Michigan Cancer Foundation said.

The Smokeout is designed to challenge smokers to quit the habit for one day. Michigan Cancer Foundation officials remind smokers that within 12 hours after the last cigarette, the body begins to heal itself. In addition, the level of carbon monoxide and nicotine in the system declines rapidly, and the heart and lungs begin to repair damage caused by cigarette smoke.

Those wishing to participate in the Smokeout are urged to heed the following words of advice.

- Decide positively that you want to quit.
- List on paper all reasons to quit and review the list nightly.
- Develop strong personal reasons to quit, in addition to health and obligations to others.
- Begin to condition yourself physically.
- Set a target date for quitting — a birthday, anniversary or the Great American Smokeout.
- Call 10800-4-CANCER for a free booklet, Clearing the Air, and support.

Signature Inn set in Plymouth

Officials from the Indianapolis-based Signature Inn, Inc., announced plans to open a motel in Plymouth in the summer of 1989. The new facility is one of three new motels slated for the Detroit area.

Currently, Signature Inns are located at Metro Airport, Grand Rapids and in Warren. In addition to Plymouth, motels are slated for Auburn Hills and Kalamazoo.

The developments represent approximately $60 million in new Michigan construction ventures for the firm.

Unemployed aided by new agreement

Officials from the Southgate-based Downriver Community Conference — of which the city of Romulus is a member — and The Information Center, in Southgate, have agreed to act together to assist the area unemployed.

The Information Center, once based in Wyandotte, is now moved to the DCC offices. The two agencies will man an employment hotline.

Further details of the agreement are expected to be released later this week.

Hospital lauded for career aid

The Wayne-based Annapolis Hospital received the Outstanding Career Exposure Program of the Year award from the Boy Scouts of America recently for the hospital Explorers health-career program.

The award was one of more than 200 given to organizations with career-exposure programs in the Greater Detroit area.

The Explorers is a division of the Boy Scouts. The co-ed group purpose is to help students between the ages of 14 and 20 explore the careers that interest them.

A participant in the program for several years, Annapolis boasted membership of 50 high school students last year.

The program, in place from October to April, exposes students to several hospital jobs, including those for X-rays, cardiopulmonary lab, nursery, data processing, rehabilitation and operating room.

From staff reports

On call: Local nurse aids hurricane victims

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Hurricane Gilbert is history, but memories of the storm are still very clear for a nurse at the Westland Medical Center.

Evonne Doulos, a registered nurse, was vacationing in Cancun when Gilbert pounded the coastal resort town. Needless to say, her vacation soon turned into a nightmare.

Doulos had been in Cancun two days, with a friend, when the two were told to evacuate the hotel.

"We were taken into the center of town, away from the coast," Doulos said.

The windows of their room were blown out, and the two huddled in a small barricaded area they had arranged.

"We were sitting in 4 inches of water," Doulos said.

Gilbert pounded the coast of Mexico for 39 hours.

As winds began to die down slightly, Doulos went into action, using her nursing skills to help the injured.

"We couldn't take anyone to hospitals because the hospitals were gone," Doulos said.

She made splints to hold fractured bones in place and used sheets to bandage cuts.

One man trying to help was injured when his arm became caught in a door as the winds blew it shut. Doulos said it took three men to pry the door open. She stayed with the man for several hours.

"It was difficult because we couldn't understand what they were saying to us. We just tried to help," Doulos said.

Doulos and other aides went several days without water and food. People started to "turn on each other," she said.

"The Mexicans weren't very good to us," she said. "And, at the airport, the Americans were turning on each other."

When the airport opened, Americans were clamoring to get on the first flights out. It wasn't a pretty sight, she said.

The Westland Medical Center honored Doulos this week with a gift for her service while in Cancun.

Kling-mar co-owner Henry Morozow (above) maintains an office in the center of the Canton Township store because he "needed the walls to hang picture." The business is the only furniture store in Canton, Morozow said. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Fashioning furniture Kling-mar owner caters to all styles

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

Kling-mar furniture store, in Canton Township, is small, but it has a comfortable, homey feeling. And that's just the way Rita Morozow likes it.

Morozow is married to Henry Morozow, the store co-owner. Harry Sharp is also a co-owner.

Rita and Sharp's wife, Ann, work regular shifts alongside their husbands.

Kling-Mar is an 11-year-old family enterprise located at 45550 Ford Road, in the Kennedy Plaza. Store officials celebrated the 11-th anniversary in October, with a sale on everything in the store.

And what's available at Kling-mar?

"We go with the American-traditional look," Henry said. "The styles have been around for 300 years, and they will be around for another 300."

Name-brand upholstery available at the store includes Knob Creek, profile

Laine, Temple, La-Z-Boy and Marlow, Baldwin brass candlesticks and all types of furniture, including Hooker, Keller, Hamman, Mersman Waldron, Tell City and Temple Stuart.

Kling-Mar is a name merging Kling, a subsidiary of Ethan Allen, and "mar" from Kenmar, an upholstery company.

Scattered throughout the store are attractive groupings of oak, cherry and maple tables and chairs. Sofas, lamps and end-tables occupy one corner of the store.

Co-owner Henry's office is in the middle of the store, because he "needed the walls to hang pictures."

Kling-mar is the only furniture store in Canton Township, according to Morozow. Although he has a large number of items in stock, much of the business is special-order.

Customers choose the style, color and frame. The furniture is generally available eight weeks after the order is placed.

As an incentive to loyal customers, Morozow offers a free decorator-service for the person who needs furniture but who doesn't know what to buy or how to arrange it.

"We send somebody out to the home," Morozow said. "We discuss how the room is used, take measurements, determine what can be used in the room."

Both Morozow and Sharp are members of the Interior Design Society.

Morozow tells customers not to worry about mixing antiques with new styles of furniture. In fact, he tells them not to worry at all about making "the right choice."

"One woman might wear high heels and jeans and feel terrific," he said. "Another might not."

"Whatever feels right is right. The truth is in the mind," he continued. "Everybody feels colors differently. It's a personal thing."

Area autoworkers are featured in book on industry

By JIM RINK
ANP Staff Writer

Autoworkers at the Ford Michigan Truck Plant, in Wayne, are the focus of a new book called End of the Line: Autoworkers and the American Dream.

The 30 workers featured in the book, written by Richard Feldman and Michael Betzold, were honored last month at a party at the Northwest YWCA, in Redford.

End of the Line is based on interviews with workers conducted by Feldman, a 17-year veteran at the Ford plant. Co-author Betzold is a Detroit Free Press reporter.

"The voices in End of the Line are those of working Americans — sons and daughters of sharecroppers, immigrants and union activists — who have lived the American dream of opportunity but wonder how their children will survive without that opportunity," Betzold said.

"They discuss what it's like to work today under the new Japanese management techniques, with automation, production speedups, concessions and the fear of layoffs," continued Betzold. "And they debate the future of the American dream now that the Automobile Century, which fueled that dream, has reached the end of the line."

Barry Bluestone, author of The Deindustrialization of America, said End of the Line offers "a rare glimpse into the human side of the industrial world, recounting the struggles and victories of the past and providing us with some critical perspective on the future."

Jim Vernatter, 47, of Romulus, is a health and safety representative for UAW Local 900. "I feel like I'm carrying on my father's fight," said Vernatter. "My dad was active in the United Mine Workers; my father and grandfather both worked in the mines. My dad was a miner for 36 years and died of black lung disease."

"The younger employees, people who have less than 10 years in, are so afraid they're going to lose their jobs they go along with anything," said Vic Wilkins, 41, of Wayne. Wilkins is a computer operator at the Michigan Truck Plant.

"When I ask them why they own a Toyota or a Honda, they say it's a high-quality car from Japan. I think we ought to start importing high-quality people from Japan to teach our kids so they won't be so dumb..."

Authors Feldman and Betzold will be on hand to sign copies of End of the Line at the B. Dalton book store, in Westland Center, from noon to 4 p.m. Saturday. The mall is located at Wayne and Warren roads, Westland.

Florist sees a rose of different countries

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

A local florist has returned home from a tour of Eastern Bloc countries with a new attitude about that part of the world.

Sherry Hissong, owner of Shirley Dean's Flowers, in Inkster, traveled recently to the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Holland and Germany with other florists from throughout the U.S.

Hissong has been a florist for 20 years, following in the footsteps of her mother and grandmother. The store has been in operation 50 years.

Hissong's journey included visits to florists and to flower wholesalers.

"I personally wanted to go because I had a lot of preconceived ideas about those countries and wanted to see what it was really like there," Hissong said. "I was pleasantly surprised. Leningrad was very cosmopolitan, and the people were very nice."

ANP: Are Americans coming around to that type of lifestyle?

HISSONG: I guess we're seeing more of it. People sometimes drop by just to pick up flowers for the house. They practice a simple elegance which we don't have.

ANP: Did you pick up some ideas that you can use in your shop?

HISSONG: A lot of good ideas. I really couldn't do the types of displays they use in those countries, again, because of the foot traffic. But I did get some ideas, and I will gradually try them.

ANP: What did you do in Holland?

HISSONG: The tulips were out of season, but we visited the big flower markets and auction there. It was a beautiful sight. You can't begin to imagine all the flowers stacked so high. They have to work quickly, too, because they're dealing with a perishable product. It is quite an operation.

Hissong was able to combine sight-seeing with her study of the flower industry.

What did she learn?

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: How do florists overseas differ from florists here?

HISSONG: They do a lot more with green plants than we do here. We really haven't gotten into that here.

ANP: How does the flower market differ?

HISSONG: It is a really strong market there. Retailers thrive on foot traffic. There is a lot more pedestrian traffic, and people walk by and stop in at the florist. Here, we don't have much foot traffic. They also have a different lifestyle.

They are more accustomed to picking up fresh flowers, just to have around the house. Americans don't really do that.

BUSINESS PEOPLE

THE AMERICAN LUNG Association Board of Directors now includes Canton Township resident Paul Munzenberger. He was elected secretary of the 2,000-member board.

Munzenberger, as associate professor of pharmacy practice at Wayne State University, will serve through September 1989.

THE KELSEY-HAYES Co., in Romulus, is the work place of Robert S. Marty, recently appointed vice president. He will be responsible for two Midwestern Western Wheel operations in Howell and Huntington, Ind., in addition to the group staff function in Romulus.

He formerly served as president and general manager of the Kelsey-Hayes French and Hecht Division, in Davenport, Iowa.

WESTLAND CONVALESCENT CENTER employee of the month for November is Mary Ghrist.

A central supply clerk, Ghrist has worked at WCC for four years. She resides in Westland and enjoys reading, crocheting and creating silk flower-arrangements.

She is described by company officials as "organized, hard-working and dependable."

THE SURGICAL RESEARCH

Laboratories at the University of Michigan Medical Center has one less employee, after 30-year employee James W. Crudup retired recently.

He and his wife, Juanita, both members of the St. James United Methodist Church, in Westland, were flown to Chicago for a reception in his honor at the Marriott Hotel Oct. 25.

In addition, the James W. Crudup award was established and will be presented to an employee for the next 20 years to the chief resident who has demonstrated the most outstanding accomplishments in research during the residency training.

FRUEHAUF TRAILER OPERATION employee Thomas G. Klinger, of Canton Township, has been named manager of manufacturing accounting.

An 18-year employee of Fruehauf, Klinger recently served as plant controller of the firm Harrisburg, Pa., plant.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN-DEARBORN Associate Registrar William Romej, a Westland resident, was named the 1988-89 employee of the year.

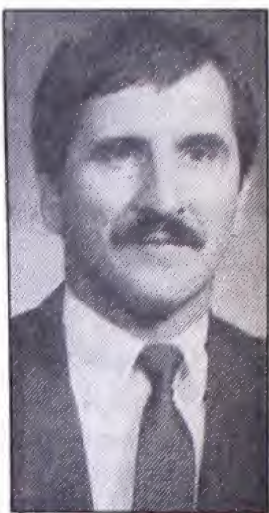

For the award, Romej will receive a free parking permit for one year. His portrait will be hung on the wall outside the university personnel office.

Wondering markets at standstill

wall street week

ron ferenzi

The financial markets seem to be preoccupied by wondering what the Fed is doing. To their surprise, the Fed is doing just what it is authorized to do.

They are watching the markets. Watch them watching the markets. In the last decade, we have produced so many bright, knowledgeable economists that the Fed management of the financial markets has become an easier job. Economists now tell their audience what the Fed is watching and what that audience should do to anticipate Fed actions.

Thus, the Fed receives an effect with no cause. As long as the effect is appropriate, there is no need for action.

This week, yields will trade in narrow ranges. The desire for gold and silver holdings will flatten.

The short-term traders will try to take advantage of early session bargain-hunting. Lack of general market-enthusiasm will cause them to move to the sell side by mid-session.

Intermediate-term traders will use any market rally to close out positions. Long-term traders still believe that a rally from this point is still possible and will hold current positions.

The market this week will be watching any announcements by President-elect George Bush or James Baker. Baker will be the power behind the policy, and his actions will alert the Fed as to the direction the Fed should take.

The market is in a negative tone, and it will take very little to push it down the hill. No news will be negative, and I see little reason to believe that this will be a strong news week.

It may take a powerful message to keep the markets from drifting lower.

INVESTMENT IDEAS: I advise looking closely at Unisys, at approximately $25.50, with a yearly high of $39 just five months ago. This stock may appeal to the long-term, Blue Chip investor.

Also, look at International Paper, at $44.50. For the speculative investor, look closely at Genetech, at $15.25, with a yearly high at $47.50 (closing prices Nov. 11).

MARKET AVERAGES: Dow 2067.03; TRANS 909.38; UTIL 182.55; S&P 267.92; NYA 151.24; OEX 254.27.

Area political leaders weigh victories, defeats

Democrats are boasting gains in Congress

By BARBARA ALBERT ANP Staff Writer

Area Democrats aren't crying about their losses in the Nov. 8 general election but are patting themselves on the back for the races they won.

"We may have lost the presidency, but we gained seats in the House and the Senate," said Clinton Justin, vice president of the Metro-Wayne Democratic Club.

Democratic campaign workers put in double-time on the phones the week before the election, hoping to sway a few more votes toward Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis.

Justin said voters made up their minds early in the campaign, when Dukakis wasn't at full swing.

"Dukakis started to campaign really well the last two weeks, but it was too late," Clinton said.

Dukakis and his campaign managers were criticized for not answering President-elect George Bush's slurs earlier. Rather, they said, Dukakis chose to sit back until the very end, when polls began to show him so far behind that to catch up would have been nearly impossible.

Campaign workers in Westland quietly cleaned out their headquarters on Wayne Road last week, trying to decide what else they could have done.

At the same time, however, they were ecstatic about big wins in other races.

"I think the fact that we won the other races - but lost the presidency - was an indication that people didn't really like either of the candidates," Justin said.

Justin and other party leaders in the area were pleased with the attention the other candidates gave to this area. A rally at the Wayne-Ford Civic League attracted U.S. Rep. William D. Ford (D-Taylor), state Rep. Justine Barnes (D-Westland) and other candidates.

Metro-Wayne Democrats had hoped to attract Dukakis here for the rally, but he campaigned in another part of the state.

Republicans claiming a full victory

By THOMAS M. VARCIE ANP Staff Writer

After a year of cut-throat campaigning with Gov. Michael Dukakis and Vice President George Bush, the national election finally has ended with a lopsided Bush victory.

One state Republican analyst said members of the Bush campaign were victorious because they capitalized on Dukakis campaign errors and exploited the lack of a concrete plan for the governor.

Rusty Hills, director of communications for the Michigan

Republicans, said based on issues alone, Bush won the election.

"I think George Bush won this issue-wise. It was shown in 1980 with Ronald Reagan. In 1984 with Reagan again and in 1988 with George Bush. The Bush campaign was simply run far better than our opponent," Hills said.

The Dukakis campaign, he said, neglected to show a concrete plan for effective policies.

"Dukakis was always behind the eight ball because of his policies. So few people knew who Mike Dukakis was and what he stood for. Ironically, the more people knew about him, the worse off he did in the polls," he said.

"I think Bush and his campaign found out who Mike Dukakis was and they told everybody. They found out he raised taxes all the time. They figured he would not do justice for the national crime scene."

Hills said he does not see a need for changes in the Republican party for the next election. The only wish for the recent election, he said, was to have more Republicans take over state representative posts. Statewide, four Republicans knocked out Democratic incumbent seats in the Michigan House of Representatives.

"It was a victory for Republicans statewide because we took some seats in the House and filled those with Republicans. And it was a big victory in the presidential election. We won 40 out of 50 states. You can't improve that much more. It's really been a blow-out time and time again," Hills said.

THE GAME OF HOMES

Before you succeed,
you must participate

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Want to play Monopoly? Want to buy a house? Both experiences will be very similar.

That analogy should not discourage would-be home buyers, however. In fact, real-estate agents say more people than ever are trying to buy a home. And, with proper planning, they are usually successful.

"A house is the only real tax benefit left, so people want to own, rather than rent," explained Ted Martin, of Red Carpet Keim, in Westland.

Martin and other real-estate agents in Westland, Canton Township and Belleville are cashing in on the housing push. Westland tops the list of new-housing construction in the region. Permits were retained for nearly 750 new units during the first six months of 1988.

It's not just the new units that are selling, however, Martin said. Older homes are doing just as well on the open home market.

The newer homes in the area are being purchased by second-time buyers, while the older homes are bargains for couples trying to break into the housing market, Martin said.

Young couples are often attracted to brick ranches built in the 1950s, Martin said. These homes are affordable for young couples and almost guarantee a good return on the investment.

"You have to think of a home as an investment," Martin said.

These brick ranches, with three bedrooms, one bath, two-car garage and a basement, will cost approximately $60,000 in Westland.

The same house in Canton might cost a bit more. But, in Romulus or Inkster, it will cost less.

"Prices are lowest in the central city, and they get higher as you move further out," Martin said. "There is a 30- to 40-percent difference in price between Westland and Livonia or Canton."

The local home-building scene

Western Wayne County is fast becoming a boomlet for residential home construction. What follows is a list of the number of permits issued during the first nine months of 1988 for all single-family homes (A), two-family units (B), apartment buildings (C), the number of single-family homes sold during that period (D) and the median price of a home in each area (E).

COMMUNITY	A	B	C	D	E
Belleville	4	1	0	151	$55,000
Canton Township	267	0	7	651	$95,900
Inkster (West)	N/A	N/A	N/A	77	$30,000
Inkster (East)	N/A	N/A	N/A	85	$36,000
Romulus	43	0	0	80	$44,950
Sumpter Township	25	0	0	40	$58,000
Van Buren Township	3	0	5	151	$55,000
Wayne	8	0	1	170	$42,000
Westland	102	5	N/A	744	$56,500

What is affordable?

Local real-estate agents have developed the following formula to determine how expensive of a house one can afford and how much one's total house/car debt should be. These formulas follow.

■ HOUSE COST – limit can be calculated by multiplying household gross monthly income by 0.28. This is how much of a monthly house payment the average household can afford.

■ HOUSE/CAR DEBT – limit can be calculated by multiplying the household gross monthly income by 0.36. This will determine the total debt limit for all cars, car insurance, house payment and house insurance. This figure does not include the debt limit for other living expenses, such as groceries, utilities and other loan payments.

The average home price in Canton is about $98,000, according to Carl Taylor, of Century 21 Taylor and Associates, in Canton. In the western portion of Canton, that price tag increases to approximately $117,000, Taylor said.

The typical Belleville home will cost between $50,000 and $70,000, according to Loraine Logue, a broker with Bridge Realty, in Belleville.

The first-time home-buyer is looking for an affordable house with solid construction. Other buyers, according to Martin, are more concerned with lifestyle and design.

Once the first-time buyer obtains a house, he or she is officially part of the housing game. When playing this game, terms such as "equity" and "investment return" become watchwords, real-estate agents said.

What determines where a home-buyer finally chooses to locate? "School district is the single most-important factor to the home-buyer," Martin said.

The buyer wants to make sure that his or her children will be attending quality schools, that he has easy access to expressways, that he knows if the city has a library and that the house will have a good resale value.

Canton is a home-buyer's heaven, Taylor said, because the region has no factories or heavy industry. Prospective Belleville residents admire the country feeling, Logue said, and the close proximity to Belleville Lake.

Trends: Home-buyers want more luxuries, creative financing

By BARBARA ALBERT
ANP Staff Writer

Four walls and a roof just don't satisfy most home-buyers anymore, especially those with some extra money in their pocket.

Home builders are paying more attention to design and aesthetics in new homes because buyers today are looking for that little "extra something."

"People work hard today. They want their house to be a place where they can be pampered," said Barbara Hoagland, a representative of Pulte Master Builders.

Pulte is one builder in the development of the Sunflower Village subdivision, in Canton Township.

Master suites are the first thing that comes to mind when talk of pampering begins. Builders are giving added attention to the master bedroom, including large baths with sunken bathtubs and whirlpools, large dressing areas and closets and even small sitting areas.

"A nice master suite can really sell the house," Hoagland said.

Windows also sell a house. BBC Group Home Builders, also part of Sunflower Village, offers French doors and bay windows, as well as greenhouse windows in the kitchen.

"People want their rooms to be bright and airy," Hoagland said.

Kime Brothers, builders of condominiums in Brandan Village, in Westland, pays special attention to light, as well, according to Shirley Voorhees, a broker. Because the units are attached, the designers are limited to adding windows on only three sides of the house. Added touches, such as a pass-through from the kitchen to the dining room, allow light to enter one room from another.

Also gone are the days of square rooms. Voorhees said the odd-shaped living room of the Brandan Village units attracts many buyers.

"They want something a little different, a little unique," she said.

Cathedral ceilings, two-story entryways and other architectural features are also important to buyers.

"People want that sense of drama when they walk into their home," said Bonnie Kohn, of BBC.

Another design feature which seems to be important to buyers, according to Hoagland, is the layout of the rooms.

"People don't want to have to walk through one room to get to another."

Other features which help sell a new home are moldings, hardwood floors, double sinks in the bathrooms, an island cabinet in the kitchen, a downstairs bathroom and a fireplace.

Many of these items are high-priced goodies that will only be found in recently built homes. But what are first-time buyers looking for in their homes costing less than $100,000?

Ted Martin, of Red Carpet Keim, in Westland, promotes "just the basics."

A family room is always nice, according to Martin, but it could add as much as $10,000 to the price of house. Martin suggests a house with a basement, which could be converted into a family-living space.

A garage is also a plus which could add $2,000 to $5,000 to the price of a house, Martin said.

A brick exterior is a favorite feature on homes in this price range. The house will be less work and more solid.

The first-time home buyer would love a large lot with plenty of room to move, but that will come at a very dear price.

The most important feature on a house in this price range is an updated kitchen and bathroom. New cupboards and countertops will make an older home worth much more, Martin said.

How to finance home dreams

Are you waiting until you have enough cash in your pocket to buy a house?

Realtors and bankers and financial advisors say, "don't bother!"

"It doesn't make sense to delay a house purchase to gather a larger down payment," said Ted Martin, of Red Carpet Keim, in Westland, "because the interest rates and the home prices will continue to go up."

With a new presidential administration on the way in, it is difficult to guess what will happen to interest rates on mortgages. Right now, however, it looks as if interest rates will be bordering the double-digit line, Martin said.

Ten percent is the minimum down payment recommended for a house. That's $8,000 for an $80,000 home. Any more than that should just be considered gravy.

Once the down payment is in the bank, don't forget moving costs and closing costs. The first few months in the new home will be tight ones.

So how much can you afford to spend on your new home?

Home-buyers today want a sense of elegance and luxury in their homes and are hoping "creative financing" will pay for these features. ANP photo by Ann Grimes/staff photographer

Homes

Most bankers suggest that the monthly payment not exceed the family gross wages for one week. Manufacturers Bank offers a chart to help potential buyers determine the monthly payments.

How long will you need to stay in that first house before reaping the benefits?

At least two years, according to Martin.

"If you're in the house less than two years, the market may not improve enough to make it worthwhile."

Gerald Berry, vice president in charge of loans at Manufacturers Bank, disagrees. Berry said that, as long as you're in the house one year, you will reap the benefits of ownership. One year worth of tax credits will be yours, as will built-up equity.

A wide variety of mortgages are available today. Fixed-rate mortgages remain the most common and, usually, the safest. But riskier loans may mean a big win for the homeowner.

A variable-rate mortgage, Berry said, might be especially beneficial to a couple who will only be in a house for a short time. For the first few years of the mortgage, the couple will be paying the lower interest rate, but they will leave the house before the higher rate takes effect.

Balloon mortgages might work for some people, but they can also be very costly.

Bankers also suggest shopping around to find the best mortgage deal.

Receiving a mortgage is not an overnight event. After the loan application is complete and the fee is paid, the bank will begin processing the loan. The bank will then appraise the house and study the credit history and assets of the applicants. The bank will compile an estimate of closing costs to be paid by the buyer and an estimate of monthly payments is compiled.

Once the loan is approved, documents are signed, and the loan is funded. It is not, however, complete until documents are filed with the appropriate county offices.

ARUBA THE DUTCH TOUCH

Aruba is the friendly Dutch Island in the Caribbean. In some ways it offers more than any other vacation spot.

There are the usual Caribbean treats—silky white sand beaches, dazzling clear aquamarine waters and sunny skies. There are lovely resort hotels and sporting facilities where you can swim, snail, snorkel, dive, wind surf, ride horses and bask on the beach. At night you can dine at fine restaurants featuring international menus, mingle at alfresco bars, clubs and casinos and dance to romantic, calypso, disco, salsa or reggae.

You can also be assured a welcome by the gracious, hospitable Arubans who take pride in showing off their island to you. There's also the exciting opportunity to shop for bargains from around the world...including beautifully embroidered linens, perfume, jewelry, Delftware and cheeses (for the Dutch flavor) and local handicrafts.

We have some great travel packages to offer to Aruba beginning at $399 for a three night stay.

Food

The proof is in the pudding

Believe it or not, they're here. Yep, the holidays fast approach and with them come the cooking chores that are either a blessing or a curse to most cooks.

Some people love this chance to entertain, and relish the opportunity to prepare wonderful culinary offerings for friends and family. These rare individuals thrive on the planning, shopping and preparing of foods for all types of holiday entertaining. Personally, I'd like to slap every one of them.

Me, I spend the first three or four days worrying myself into a nervous wreck to whom any comment at all elicits tears. You know, serious criticism like, "Do you think it will rain?" That type of insult really sets off the waterworks when I'm faced with the challenge of holiday entertaining, particularly of people not bound to me by blood.

But I do have a few aces up my sleeve. They usually take the form of a select group of tried and true recipes which have never failed me in my hours of need. And, frankly, just the concocting of some of these favorites soothes my psyche sufficiently to survive the holidays.

While cookies are usually my sure-fire cure for depression, the severe anxiety produced by prospective entertaining requires heavy duty therapy in the form of pudding. Remember when your mother would make wonderful, sweet, rich, creamy pudding for you when you had a sore throat or a cold? Me too. And, it's still a comfort. Fattening, but a comfort, nonetheless.

This is one of my favorite pudding recipes, guaranteed to either provide solace for the cook prior to entertaining or rave reviews from the guests lucky enough to be served. Incidentally, my mother didn't make this one, although if she had, she might have felt a whole lot more relaxed about holiday entertaining. I highly recommend this, even if the cook decides to consume it all prior to the arrival of the guests. In fact, that might be the best way to use it, after all, particularly if you substitute rum for half the water in the sauce recipe.

Rum pudding

- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 2/3 cup light cream
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 egg yolks, beaten
- 6 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 3 tablespoons rum
- Raspberry sauce

Soften the gelatin in the cream in a small saucepan and heat just until gelatin is dissolved. Cool. In a large bowl, combine the salt, egg yolks and sugar and beat until thick and lemon-colored. Fold in the gelatin and cream mixture and the whipped cream. Stir in the rum. Pour into dishes and chill. Serve topped with raspberry sauce.

Raspberry sauce

- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1/3 cup cold water

Force the raspberries through a sieve to remove the seeds. Combine the sugar, cornstarch and water in a saucepan and mix well. Add the sieved berries and cook, stirring, until sauce is thick. Chill before serving.

▲Helping plan and prepare the Thanksgiving feast at the Belleville Moose lodge are members Doug Harden (from left), Martha Morton and Bill Anguilm. Thanksgiving moose ?

Group members planing meals for residents

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A love for people and for cooking has inspired a 15-year-old tradition at the Belleville Moose Lodge.

Every Thanksgiving, 250 to 300 area senior citizens are served a traditional meal, with all the trimmings, prepared by the experienced cooks at the lodge, many of whom cook for a hobby.

One of the cooks, Martha Salt, said the group has made the preparation a fine art.

"We've just been doing it for so many years we know what we need," Salt said.

The meal requires approximately 50 people to help out in some way. Many members contribute food, such as baked goods, or offer donations. Others help with the serving.

"We all enjoy it," Salt said. "We all get along great."

The tradition began with cook Doug Harden, at his former lodge. When Harden came to the Belleville Moose Lodge, the Thanksgiving meals came with him.

Although the dinners were originally prepared for approximately 90 seniors, between 250 and 350 people now attend, Harden said.

"It keeps us busy," he said, with a smile.

The meal this year will be served Sunday. Harden plans to begin cooking the turkeys Thursday and will remove the bones Saturday. The final preparations are made the day of the meal.

To prepare a successful turkey dinner for a large group, Harden simply determines how much must be prepared for every 100 guests and proceeds.

As a cook who learned his skills while in the service, Harden has experienced years of pleasing crowds.

"I had three months of KP duty before I got in the kitchen," Harden said.

Every Thanksgiving, 250 to 300 area senior citizens are served a traditional meal, with all the trimmings, prepared by the experienced cooks at the lodge, many of whom cook for a hobby.

Many pots and pans stood in his path before he was taught to cook, he explained.

Now, the cooking is a hobby for him - at the lodge and at home.

To cook successfully, whether for 100 people or one, patience is necessary, Harden said. Cooks must also know their seasonings, he said.

Harden provided some of his popular Thanksgiving recipes but warned that each serves 100 people. For serving smaller groups, cut the proportions accordingly, he said. For example, for serving 10 people, use 10 percent of the ingredient proportions (45 pounds of meat equals 4.5 pounds of meat).

"It takes a little division," Harden said.

Turkey a la king

- 45 pounds turkey
- 6 gallons water
- 9 tablespoons salt
- 9 bayleaves
- 2 2/3 tablespoons monosodium glutamate
- 2 7/8 cup nonfat dry milk
- 3 3/4 cups warm water
- 3 gallons turkey stock
- 1 1/4 quart shortening or vegetable oil
- 2 1/2 tablespoons flour
- 4 2/3 tablespoons salt

- 2 tablespoons black pepper
- 3 cups dried onions
- 3 3/4 quart chopped celery
- 3 cups sweet peppers
- 1 3/4 cup chopped pimentos

Boil turkey in large kettle(s) 1 1/2 to 2 hours until tender. Remove from heat and reserve stock. Cool turkey. Remove meat from bones and cut into 1-inch pieces. Mix thoroughly with reconstituted milk. Heat until simmering. Do not boil. Meanwhile, combine shortening or oil with flour in mixer bowl. Beat until smooth. Add flour mixture to stock. Simmer 10 to 15 minutes. Add salt, pepper, onion, celery, monosodium glutamate. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Add turkey, peppers and pimentos. Heat to serving temperature. Serve on baking-powder biscuits (recipe below).

Baking-powder biscuits

- 3 gallons flour
- 2 7/8 cup nonfat dry milk
- 1 1/2 cup baking powder
- 6 tablespoons salt
- 5 3/4 cups shortening
- 3 3/4 quarts water

Sift together dry milk, salt, baking powder into mixer bowl. Add shortening, blend thoroughly. Add water. Mix at low speed until soft dough forms. Place dough on lightly floured board. Knead lightly 1 minute or until smooth. Roll or pat out to 1/2-inch thickness. Cut biscuits to 2 1/2-inch width (use water glass). Bake at 350 degrees 15 minutes or until lightly browned.

Mixed fruit pie

- 10 unbaked pie shells, corresponding top crusts
- 3 quarts canned peaches
- 3 quarts canned pears
- 1 1/2 gallons canned pineapple (chunks or tidbits)
- 3 1/2 cup maraschino cherries
- 9 2/3 cup granulated sugar
- 3 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 tablespoon ground nutmeg

- 1 gallon reserved juice from above fruit
- 1 cup lemon juice

Drain fruit and save juice. Cut pears into small pieces. Cut cherries in half. Combine. Mix well. In separate mixer bowl, combine sugar, starch, salt and nutmeg. Beat until well blended.

In separate bowl, combine canned juices and lemon juice. Add gradually to sugar mixture, beating at a low speed and occasionally scraping sides of bowl. When combined thoroughly, carefully fold fruit into mixture. Fill each pie shell with 2 3/4 cup filling. Top with upper crust. Bake at 350 degrees 30 to 35 minutes. Crust should be lightly browned.

Remember, the last three recipes serve 100 people. Use the formula above for serving smaller groups.

Turkey stuffing

- Equal amounts of the following:
- White bread crumbs
- Rye bread crumbs
- Whole wheat bread crumbs
- Chopped celery
- Seasoned salt to taste
- Sage to taste
- Turkey stock (enough to moisten all of mixture)

Mix all ingredients thoroughly with large spoon. Bake in 350-degree oven 1 hour.

Sweet potato casserole

- 1 sweet potato or yam per person
- 1/4 to 1/2 stick butter or margarine per potato, depending on size and amount of potatoes
- Brown sugar to taste

Boil potatoes until tender. Peel and slice. Layer in casserole dish potatoes, butter or margarine and brown sugar until all ingredients are used. Bake in 350-degree oven approximately 45 minutes.

3 STAR COOKS

Area residents make magic with the love of cooking

By THOMAS M. VARCIE

Sugar and spice and everything nice. That's what the 1988 Associated Newspapers Holiday Cookbook is made of.

The long-awaited collection of recipes from area residents appears before you to tempt your taste buds and impress even the most finicky of holiday guests.

Dozens of readers entered the contest this year, vying for first-, second- and third-place prizes. The first-place winner (each winner appears below) will receive a portable television, perfect to occupy those 10 to 12 minutes while those holiday cookies bake.

The second-place winner will receive a one-year membership at a local health spa. Third place means dinner for two at Chuck Muer's restaurant, in Wayne.

While all of those who entered are winners, our hard-to-please judges have selected three readers worthy of special recognition. These three have been featured below. The three winning recipes have also been printed on page 4.

Other recipes - many emerging as key competition for the three winners - are also printed in this special cookbook edition of Today. We urge you to sample these recipes and use them when planning your holiday cooking agenda.

First place - Carol Luelleman

When she was 14 years old, Carol Ann Luelleman, 41, of Canton

Canton resident Deborah Chamulak (top photo) won second place for her cran-apple torte recipe, while Inkster resident Patricia McCoy netted third-place honors for her noels.

Township, won first place in a cooking contest sponsored by 4-H of Wayne County. Twenty-seven years later, Luelleman has netted another first-place prize.

The cook has been selected as the first-place winner in the Associated Newspapers Holiday Cookbook contest for her harvest loaf recipe.

As a lover of the kitchen, Luelleman, employed by the Canton Township Police Department, loves to cook each day for her four children.

"I love to cook. Usually, it's once a day. Desserts are my main hobby when cooking," Luelleman said. "I just enjoy cooking and love the satisfaction and relaxation it gives me."

This style of cooking, Luelleman said, was adopted by her mother, who is also an excellent cook. Many times, Mom experimented with recipes to create innovative meals.

"I like to make my own recipes and experiment in the kitchen. I have made quite a few recipes over the years. When I make recipes, I add a little here, subtract a little there," she said. "I do save a lot of recipes, too, from the newspapers and books and magazines. I have the recipes all over the place.

"Most of what I cook are my originals. The other things I cook come from the recipes. My mother inspired me for most of my cooking."

Luelleman's life revolves around the kitchen. Much of her time on the weekends - sometimes after work - is spent in the kitchen, making meals from self-developed or borrowed recipes.

Some of Luelleman's favorite desserts include breads, cookies and candies, which include chocolate-nut clusters, chocolate covered pretzels and fudge.

Her all-time favorite recipe, she said, is French silk pie, which appeared on a past food page of the Associated Newspapers.

Second place - Deborah Chamulak

The Associated Newspapers Holiday Cookbook contest is the first cooking contest Deborah Chamulak, 36, of Canton Township, has entered.

And she is happy she did. Chamulak has been named the second-place winner in the contest for her recipe of cran-apple torte.

The finalist said she was quite thrilled and amazed that she was selected as a winner.

"I never entered a contest before. But I enjoy cooking very much, and I collect cookbooks and try new gadgets in the kitchen," she said.

Her favorite gadget is the "everything tool." The kitchen tool, she said, was given to her about three years ago. She uses it to crack nuts, take bottle caps off bottles and unscrew tight caps on jars.

The kitchen is Chamulak's domain. She emphasizes the fact that her family should have a dinner every night. Her husband and three children seldom complain.

She loves to be creative in the kitchen and considers cooking more of a hobby than a duty.

"Cooking is creative because you can do something different every time. I do use recipes a lot of times, and I make up my own. My mother's recipes have been passed on to me," she said.

"With some of the meals, I enhance or make some different to suit the tastes. I like making some recipes," she said.

And recipes she has! Approximately 100 books filled with old and new secrets line her shelves.

"I like saving a lot of recipes. I collect many cookbooks. Some are antique, some are funny, some are practical. I have at least 100 of them around the house," she said.

Chamulak's favorite foods are full of spices, including chili and Mexican foods, as well as buffalo and chicken wings dipped in hot sauce. Her favorite desserts include cookies, cakes and five different versions of her own apple pie.

Third place - Patricia McCoy

Last year, Patricia McCoy, 53, of Inkster, was chosen as an honorable-mention winner in the Associated Newspapers Holiday Cookbook contest. This year, she capitalized on her previous effort and has been named a finalist in the annual contest.

McCoy was selected as a third-place winner in the contest, with her special "noels."

Being named as a finalist, she said, was quite a surprise. But she has always loved to cook.

"I always loved to cook when I was a teenager. My mother would work, and I would come home from school and make cakes and cookies and biscuits," McCoy said.

After her mother had set the menu for dinner, McCoy would hunt for an alternative to the menu. Often, she said, she developed her own recipes.

"When I would come home, I would make something that was my own idea. I would also make many things from recipes. I'm a big collector of recipes. I have a great big box of the recipes and a notebook, too," she said. "I'll stuff recipes in the booklets I have, and I cut them out of the newspapers and magazines."

Such a habit has been developed during the years and is an extension of her childhood love for cooking.

"For the desserts, I haven't made those as much any more, because our family is a lot smaller now. But I still make them for us occasionally," she said.

Cooking, she said, is a true delight.

Harvest loaf

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 3/4 cup canned pumpkin
- 1 package (6 ounces) semisweet chocolate pieces

For the glaze:

- 2 tablespoons light cream
- 1/2 cup sifted confectioner's sugar
- Dash nutmeg
- Dash cinnamon

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, beating well. Stir together flour, soda, cinnamon, salt, nutmeg, ginger and cloves. Add to butter mixture alternately with pumpkin, beginning and ending with dry ingredients, beating well after each addition.

Stir in chocolate chips and 3/4 cup walnuts. Pour batter into greased 9-by-5-by-3-inch loaf pan. Sprinkle with remaining walnuts. Bake in a 350-degree oven 65 minutes or until cake tests done. Cool cake.

For the glaze, stir together light cream, confectioner's sugar, nutmeg and cinnamon.

- Submitted by Carol Ann Luelleman, of Canton Township

Cran-apple torte

For the filling:

- 1 cup fresh or frozen cranberries
- 1 cup diced unpeeled apple
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon cloves

For the batter:

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup flour
1/4 cup butter melted
1/4 cup salad oil
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Combine apple, cranberries, sugar, walnuts and spices. Spoon into greased 8-inch round cake pan. Beat together all ingredients for batter. Spread over cranberry-apple mixture. Bake at 325 degrees for 55 to 60 minutes. Serve warm with ice cream or whipped cream. Serves 8.

- Submitted by Deborah Chamulak, of Canton Township

Noels

1/3 cup soft butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup light brown sugar
1 egg
1 1/4 cups sifted sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup sour cream
36 pitted dates
36 walnut halves
Icing

To make icing, melt 2 tablespoons butter. Blend in 1 cup confectioner's sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 tablespoon milk.

Cream butter and vanilla. Gradually beat in sugar. Add egg and beat well. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with sour cream. Stuff dates with walnut halves and roll in dough. When well-covered, drop from a fork on well-buttered sheet. Bake at 400 degrees about 10 minutes. When cold, spread with icing. Makes 3 dozen.

Hungarian nut rolls

- 4 cups flour
- 1/2 pound margarine
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 package yeast

Mix those ingredients together like a pie dough.

Add 1 cup lukewarm milk with 4 egg yolks stirred into milk first. Mix dough and milk together. Knead well. Set in refrigerator 1 hour. Divide into 4 parts. Roll each part into thin rectangles. Spread each rectangle with the following mixture.

- 4 cups finely ground walnuts
- 4 beaten egg whites
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 teaspoon cinnamon

Roll up into long rolls, pinch edges. Bake 2 each on ungreased cookie sheets. Do not let them touch. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

They freeze well up to 3 months.

Mexican layered dip

- 1 large can refried beans
- 2 avacados (ripe and mashed)
- 2 teaspoons lemon
- 1 cup mayonnaise
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 package taco seasoning
- 3 chopped tomatoes
- 2 bunches green onions

Spread in: first layer, refried beans; second layer, avacados and lemon; third layer, mayonnaise, sour cream and taco seasoning; fourth layer, tomatoes; fifth layer, green onions.

Sprinkle with 8 ounces shredded cheddar cheese and sliced black olives.

Layer in 9-by-13 pan. Use nacho chips for dipping.

Fruit festival salad

- First layer-lime layer: 1 package lime gelatin
- 1 cup hot water
- 1/3 cup pineapple juice
- 1 cup drained pineapple tidbits or chunks

- 1 1/2 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
- 1/4 cup milk

- 2 packages strawberry gelatin
- 2 cups hot water
- 1 16-ounce package frozen strawberries thawed

For first layer, prepare lime gelatin according to package directions but use 1/3 cup pineapple juice instead of cold water. Also add 1 cup pineapple tidbits or chunks. Chill until syrupy. Fold in pineapple. Pour into 9-by-13 size pan. Chill until firm.

For second layer, combine 1 1/2 teaspoon unflavored gelatin and water. Heat until clear. Blend, cheese, milk and gelatin together. Pour over lime layer. Chill until firm.

For third layer, prepare strawberry gelatin according to package directions but add only 2 cups hot water. Also stir in frozen strawberries. Chill. When syrupy, stir and pour over cheese layer. Chill until firm.

Polka dot cherry dessert

- 9 cups angel food cake cut in 1/2-inch cubes
- 1 21-ounce can cherry pie filling
- 1 3 1/4-ounce package instant vanilla or coconut cream pudding mix
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- Whipped cream or chocolate syrup

Place half of cake cubes in bottom of a 9-inch square dish. Pick out 12 cherries and set aside. Spoon rest of pie filling on cake cubes. Top with rest of cake.

In large bowl, combine dry pudding mix, milk and sour cream. Beat on low speed 1 minute. Carefully spread on top of cake and arrange reserved cherries on top. Chill at least 8 hours or overnight. Cut in squares to serve. Serves 9 to 12.

To serve, top with whipped cream and drizzle on a spoonful of the chocolate syrup.

Baked chicken squares

- 3 cups cooked, diced chicken (or turkey)
- 1 cup finely diced celery
- 2 1/2 cups fresh bread cubes
- 1 1/2 cups hot milk
- 3 tablespoons margarine or butter
- 3/4 cup boiling water
- 1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
- 1/2 cup uncooked Minute rice
- 3/4 cup poultry seasoning
- 1 teaspoon instant minced onion
- 2 eggs, beaten

For sauce 1:

- 1 can cream of mushroom or cream of celery soup
- 1/2 cup milk

For sauce 2:

- 1 can whole cranberry sauce

Combine milk, bread and margarine. Let set 5 minutes. Combine water, chicken bouillon, rice, seasoning and onion. Let stand 5 minutes. Then combine all these with chicken, celery and eggs. Spoon into a buttered 9-inch square dish. Bake at 350-degrees for 1 to 1 1/2 hours — or until center tests done. Cut in 9 to 12 squares and serve with desired sauce.

For sauce 1, combine and heat milk and soup until hot and smooth. For sauce 2, heat whole cranberry sauce in pan. Break up berries.

Fruit-cocktail cake

- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons soda
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup pecans
- 1 number 3 can fruit cocktail

For the frosting:

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 small can pet milk
- 1 stick butter or margarine

Mix sugar, flour and soda together. Add eggs and cocktail juice. Mix well. Fold in fruit. Pour into a greased, floured, oblong cake pan. Sprinkle brown sugar and pecans over top. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until done.

To make frosting, in medium size saucepan, combine frosting ingredients and boil 5 to 8 minutes. Pour over cake while both are still hot.

Lo-cal pumpkin chiffon pie

- 8 level teaspoons brown sugar
- 1 envelope Knox unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 2 cups cooked, canned pumpkin
- 2 slightly beaten egg yolks
- 1/2 cup skim milk
- 2 egg whites
- 8 packages Equal artificial sweetener
- 1 cup (16 2 1/2 inch squares) graham cracker crumbs
- 8 level teaspoons reduced calorie margarine
- 8 tablespoons Cool Whip

In medium size saucepan, combine brown sugar, gelatin, salt and spices. Combine egg yolks and milk. Stir into brown sugar mixture. Cook and stir until mixture comes to a boil. Remove from heat. Stir in pumpkin. Chill approximately 30 minutes — until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Don't allow mixture to become too stiff.

Beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Gradually add sweetener, beating to stiff peaks. Fold pumpkin mixture thoroughly into egg whites. Refrigerate until crust is ready.

Combine cracker crumbs and margarine in a 10-inch oblong baking dish. Mix thoroughly and press to make a crust. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes. Cool. Turn pumpkin mixture into cooled crust. Chill until firm. Cut into 8 servings and top each one with 1 tablespoon Cool Whip before serving.

Cranberry-pear braid

- 4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 package active dry yeast
- 1 1/4 cups milk
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- 3 cups peeled, cored and chopped pears
- 1 1/2 cups cranberries
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1/2 cup chopped toasted almonds
- Powdered-sugar icing

In a large mixer bowl, stir together 1 1/2 cups of the flour and yeast. In a saucepan, heat milk, brown sugar, butter or margarine and salt until warm (115 to 120 degrees) and butter is almost melted, stirring constantly. Add to flour mixture and add eggs. Beat with an electric mixer on low speed for 30 seconds, scraping sides of bowl constantly. Beat on high speed 3 minutes. Using a spoon, stir in all remaining flour to make soft dough. Shape into ball. Cover and refrigerate several hours or overnight.

Prepare filling. In a saucepan, stir and cook pears, cranberries and sugar over medium heat for about 10 minutes or until fruit is tender. Combine cornstarch and water. Add to cranberry mixture. Cook and stir until thick and bubbly. Cook and stir 2 minutes more. Stir in almonds. Cool.

Punch dough down. Divide in half. Return one portion to refrigerator. On floured surface, roll other portion into a 15-by-12-inch rectangle. With sharp knife, cut dough lengthwise into three 15-by-4-inch rectangles. Spread about 1/2 cup filling down center of each piece. Bring long sides of each rectangle together. Seal, including ends. Place filled dough strips, seam side down and 1 inch apart on greased baking sheet. Braid loosely, beginning at middle and working toward ends. Gently straighten braid. Pinch ends together and tuck under the braid. Repeat with remaining dough and filling.

Cover and let rise in warm place until almost double, about 30 minutes. Bake in a 350-degree oven about 25 to 30 minutes — or until golden. If necessary, cover loosely with foil the last 5 minutes to prevent overbrowning. Cool on wire racks. Drizzle with powdered-sugar icing. Makes 2 braids.

(For powdered-sugar icing, combine 2 cups sifted powdered sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla and enough milk for drizzling).
